FURLOUGH PLAN DETERMINED ON BY POSTOFFICE

Department Will Rotate Workers in Lieu of Dismissals.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A broad policy of rotative furloughs, in lieu of outright dismissals, definitely has been determined upon by the Postoffice Department, it was authoritatively learned last night.

Anticipating early approval of furlough provisions of the independent offices bill, officials of the department, who have discretionary authority under the measure to discharge or furlough, have decided upon the latter course wherever it can be employed within reason.

The decision is significant in view of the fact that the furlough legislation lacks teeth in its present form, and is entirely dependent on departmental policies for what use is made of it.

Thousands of Jobs Saved.

Encompassing some 48 per cent of the civil personnel of the Government, or approximately 250,000 Federal employes, the Postoffice Department thus has blazed the way for a widespread furlough program that may mean the saving of thousands of jobs.

Other Federal agencies are known to be considering similar action, and one has taken preliminary steps to map out what it considers an equitable plan for distributing furloughs. Other departments are said to be leaning toward dismissals as the only way out under sharply reduced appropriations.

Although the postoffice decision does not mean discharges will be entirely eliminatel, it does mean they will be used only as a last resort in that department, with the spread-work idea serving as the guiding policy wherever retrenchment is made. It was said that details of the program have not been worked out.

Reorganization Is Awaited.

Meanwhile, Capitol Hill is awaiting daily receipt of the President's reorganization program, which of necessity will force wide recourse to either furloughs or dismissals or both.

House and Senate are expected to take affirmative action before adjournment, placing the program in immediate effect. Should Congress not act, the President's recommendations automatically would go into effect within 60 days.

Scheduled for Senate consideration yesterday, the independent offices

Banker Harriman Trial Postponed to Monday

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Trial of Joseph W. Harriman on charges of falsifying the books of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., which he headed, was postponed today until next Monday.

Try to Bar California Repeal Vote Defeated

San Francisco, May 29 (A.P.).—An effort to prevent a vote in California upon prohibition repeal failed today when the State Supreme Court denied a petition for a writ of mandate which would have prevented the putting on the ballot the names of candidates for delegates to a State convention.

The court denied without comment the application filed by Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., and three other Los Angeles men which attacked the legality of the congressional referendum resolution and the State act under which an election had been called for June 27.

PAY INCREASES MARK STEADY TRADE UPTURN

700,000 Are Put Back to Work in Four Weeks Over U. S.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Widely scattered wage increases throughout American industry have been a striking feature of the general business recovery, which has been gaining momentum almost daily since mid-April.

Increases ranging from 5 per cent to 12½ per cent have been announced by individual plants in every important industrial center, according to private surveys made available yesterday by half a dozen of the principal commercial reporting agencies.

Among the industries which report either general or scattered increases are boots and shoes, wool manufacturing, breweries, machinery and tools. Two scattered increases also have been reported from the automobile industry.

General Response Noted.

Although the figures can not be complete for several weeks, current reports indicate the general nature of the response to President Roosevelt's plea early this month, before the United States Chamber of Commerce, for an increase in wages to meet increased living costs incident to the administration's new monetary policy.

The somewhat general tendency toward higher wages and enlarged employment are marked by the business reporting agencies as most encouraging omens of sustained economic recovery. Fears of uncontrolled inflation have subsided, but the prospect of continuously advancing prices during the next six months is calling out a tremendous volume of forward buying. This buying, in turn, is priming the industrial machinery in every section of the United States.

Preliminary May figures in the Department of Labor indicate approximately 700,000 wage earners added to the factory pay rolls of the country during the last four weeks. About 500,000 were reemployed in the month of April.

Best Since Spring of 1930.

Although no official estimate of the number of persons actually put back to work is offered by the Labor Department statisticians, the preliminary indices now in hand provide the basis for the above unofficial figures. They represent the most encouraging spread of factory employment since the spring of 1930.

Coupled with the tendency toward enlarged pay rolls, the freight car loadings, power production and textile operations, three of the basic indices of industrial activity, are showing the first effects of a now firmly grounded reflation boom.

Automobile production is at the highest rate in more than two years. Steel operations were the highest last week since the spring of 1931. Cotton

Two Killed When Plane Crashes in Westchester

White Plains, N. Y., May 29 (A.P.).—Two men lost their lives today in the crash of an airplane in the wooded section of the Pound Ridge Reservation, in northern Westchester County.

They were identified as Capt. Frank ("Lonnie") Hay, 30, of Brooklyn, and John Smiley, 21, of New York. Smiley, who was a student pilot, was said to be the owner of the plane. The pair were flying from Elmira, N. Y., to Floyd Bennett Field.

Loot Recovery Proves Costly to Smart Police

Kansas City, May 29 (A.P.).—Even efficiency is costly at times. The Kansas City police have recovered so much stolen property that today they had to rent a storeroom for it.

Persons with missing property have been given the room's address and an invitation to take a look at the contents.

Is Being Painted at Navy Yard to Cruise With White House Yacht.

The trim craft pictured above, the United States Coast Guard cutter Cuyahoga, will be turned over to the Navy for the President's personal use as a tender to the Sequoia. Docked at the Navy Yard, the vessel is being painted, and may cruise as an auxiliary to the President's ship. At present it is an aluminum color as a foundation for white paint. A number of the same type of vessels are being put out of commission by the Coast Guard under the Government economy program.

Under the law, it is possible for the Treasury Department, controlling the Coast Guard, to transfer craft or equipment to the Navy Department without special authorization.

$675,000 IS PLEDGED TO HAMILTON BANK

Subscription of Remainder of $575,000 Needed Expected This Week.

There has been $675,000 worth of stock subscribed to date to open the proposed "Hamilton National Bank of Washington." This was announced yesterday, following meetings of the general subscription committee and the subscription committee of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., one of the seven restricted institutions committed to the plan for the new bank.

This was the first announcement of a general total. It was made at the beginning of the second week's campaign to secure $1,250,000 worth of stock to create the new bank and make available 50 per cent of the deposits of the seven participating banks, more than $10,000,000. Members of the general subscription committee hope to have the remaining $575,000 worth of stock subscribed by the close of the week.

With more than half of the necessary amount of stock subscribed, however, organizers of the new bank emphasized the importance of every stockholder and depositor in the institutions concerned subscribing to the fullest extent possible. An oversubscription, they said, would add greatly to the prestige of the new institution.

The subscription committee of Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. held its second meeting with the directorate of that company yesterday and is calling a meeting of its stockholders tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at its main office.

Seven restricted banks are now in the plan to create the "Hamilton National Bank of Washington." They are Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., District National Bank, Potomac Savings Bank, Washington Savings Bank, Northeast Savings Bank, Woodridge-Langdon Savings &

Britain Continues Russian Embargo

London, May 29 (A.P.).—Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, answering a question as to whether there have been negotiations with Russia for resumption of trade relations, told the House of Commons today that "the opportunity indicated to the Soviet government for negotiations is still open."

This was interpreted in parliamentary quarters as British insistence on its position in the Moscow trial of six British engineers on charges of sabotage and espionage. The British government held that sentencing of two of the Britons, William MacDonald and L. C. Thornton, to two and three year prison terms was unfair and that this action must be rectified or the embargo on Russian goods must continue.

GOLD MEASURE IS APPROVED IN HOUSE, 283-57

Roosevelt Spurns Pledge in Platform, Say Republicans.

(Associated Press.)

Acting with celerity, the House yesterday voted that legal tender money should be used henceforth in the settlement of contractual obligations of the Government and of the private citizen.

Passage of the bill, designed by the administration to give the same value to all legal tender money as was held by gold before the Government called that metal into the Treasury, gave House approval to:

Payment of all private mortgages and private debts of all kinds, both past and future, in any legal tender money.

Settlement of international obligations, including war debts, in legal tender money of the United States instead of gold.

Liberty Bonds Included.

Payment of the Government's debts to private citizens, including liberty and all other Government bonds, in any legal money.

A vote of 283 to 57 sent the bill to the Senate, where the Banking Committee had approved it. There Democratic leaders expect early favorable action to clear the way for a large financial operation the Treasury is going to undertake shortly.

The administration wants the gold clause eliminated from all future and existing contracts to put those it proposes to issue on an equality with those outstanding by making them payable in legal tender.

Amendments Are Beaten.

The resolution met a hail of Republican criticism on the argument that it constituted "repudiation" of $100,000,000,000 in Government and private contracts. The Republicans also contended it was tantamount to reducing the foreign debt by allowing the debtor countries to pay in currency instead of in gold.

An effort by Representative Luce (Republican), Massachusetts ranking

Robbers Get Thousands In Pawn Shop Pledges

Philadelphia, May 29 (A.P.).—Ignoring passers-by, two men today held up the Fidelity Loan Co., a midcity pawn shop, trussed two men together in the cellar, after forcing one to open a safe, and then fled with jewelry pledged for loans.

Lewis Solomon, 27, son of the proprietor, managed to free himself and sounded a burglar alarm. He said the loss in pledges would "run into the thousands."

AUSTIN TO HEAD SENATE'S PROBE OF MILK PRICES

Inquiry Into Situation Here to Get Under Way Within Week.

By DANIEL B. MAHER.

The senatorial inquiry of milk prices in the District is expected to get under way within a week, under the direction of Senator Warren Austin (Republican), of Vermont, who yesterday was designated to head the subcommittee which will conduct the hearings.

Shortly after his appointment by Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, the Vermont senator announced he will call a meeting of the subcommittee later in the week to chart a plan of procedure for the inquiry.

In addition to Senator Austin, the committee personnel includes Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, former health commissioner of New York City and an outstanding expert on hygiene and food, and Senator King, whose aggressive action resulted in sanction of the probe by the Senate.

Brand to Start Survey.

Meanwhile, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, moved ahead with its plans for a survey of marketing conditions in the Washington milk field, with a view to appointing a milk administrator for this area.

Charles J. Brand, coadministrator, announced last night that within a week he will call a meeting of producers and distributors to make a preliminary survey of marketing conditions. He said the interest of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was aroused by numerous complaints from consumers against the high milk prices.

Senator Austin is particularly qualified to act as head of the committee, because the section of Vermont in which he resides is dairy country and he is familiar with the producing and consuming aspects of milk marketing.

Quiz to Be Thorough.

"I intend to make the utmost use of the Department of Agriculture in this inquiry," he said. "I will call the subcommittee together some time this week and we will make our plans. The inquiry will be thorough and impartial. We expect to finish our investigation before adjournment."

Senator Austin said he is not familiar with local marketing conditions and will have to make a study of them before proceeding with the inquiry.

Mollisons Poised For New York Hop

London (Tuesday) May 30 (U.P.).—The Daily Express said today that the "Flying Mollisons"—James and his wife, the former Amy Johnson—were standing by, preparatory to a transatlantic flight from London to New York.

It was understood they hope to start next week, but the departure depends on the moon and weather reports over the Atlantic.

The report said that Mr. and Mrs. Mollison intended to fly in a "freak" machine never previously flown, except in tests. It was described as a huge 1,000-gallon flying gasoline tank, with wings.

Surprise Visit of Veterans Creates New Job Problem

Hundreds Mobilize Here to Get Places in Forest Camps Only to Find Rolls Are Closed; Assert Bureau Suggested Migration.

A surprise mobilization of more than 200 former service men, who claimed they were sent to Washington by regional offices of the Veterans' Bureau throughout the country for enrollment in the President's reforestation program, last night caught police off guard and many hours of hasty conferences were consumed before the newest "white elephant" was temporarily taken from their hands.

Estimating that at least 400 veterans have arrived in the city since last week and that hundreds more are now on the way here, "at the direction of Veterans' Bureau officials," members of the group last night said they represented a portion of those who were unable to find accommodations in local missions.

It was made clear that the veterans already here and those en route were not seeking payment of the bonus. It is an "unemployment march," they claim, and the main objective is to obtain work in the reforestation project.

Although officials of the Veterans' Administration here, through various channels, recently issued word to former service men througout the country not to come to Washington, members of the group said that as late as last week they were told by State regional officers that only by coming here would they be able to register in the President's program.

"We were told," a spokesman said, "that 25,000 men would be enrolled in reforestation camps. We were also told that we would have to come to Washington to join the movement."

Registration in the conservation program closed last Thursday. Yes-

KEYNOTE OF PEACE WILL HONOR HEROES

"Peace."

As tribute is paid those who warred and died for the Nation in many wars at Memorial Day services today, standing silently beside will be the Spirit of Peace.

At the Nation's shrine, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, a mute sentinel with bowed head will stand, across his chest written in black, the word "Peace."

While the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy take their seats in the Amphitheater and oratory and music praise the fallen soldiery, the silent figure will express the silent rejoinder, "Peace."

While patriotic societies carry their flowers to the marble of the Unknown Soldier, a member of Washington's Youth Peace Council will be the figure across whose chest there will be emblazoned "Peace."

The chief observance of the day will be at the Amphitheater at Arlington, where the services at 12:45 p. m. will be held under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic Association.

Addresses will be made by both Secretary Swanson and Secretary Dern. President and Mrs. Roosevelt will attend the rites, a feature of which will be a service for the men who lost their lives in the crash of the Akron.

James C. Yaden will be presiding officer at the services, prior to which wreaths will be placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by the District Departments of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans.

The eight, employes of a highway repair crew, had taken refuge in the shed after a storm broke suddenly. The rain ceased falling and the men had started to leave the structure when the lightning struck, hurling them to the ground. The seriously hurt, all burned and injured about the head and body:

Big Parley

Of Manufacturers Called to Study Industrial-Works-Taxation Bill.

(Associated Press.)

Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, announced last night he had called a conference of the entire membership of 56,000 manufacturers to meet in Washington next Saturday to consider the industrial control-public works-taxation bill.

The association chieftain said the consideration of the huge administration industrial measure would be taken up with a "view to obtaining the widest possible expression of opinion of the manufacturers of the Nation, not with respect to the declared purposes of the proposed legislation, but rather as to the form which it is now taking."

The association threw its weight against parts of the bill yesterday through the testimony of its counsel, James A. Emery, before the Senate Finance Committee. Lund contended that as it is now drawn the measure would "retard rather than promote industrial recovery."

Invitations to attend next Satur-

PARLEY DELEGATION LEAVES TOMORROW

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The American delegation to the World Economic and Monetary Conference with its full complement of members still to be named will leave here tomorrow for New York to sail for London. The President appealed to Senator James Couzens, millionaire Independent Republican from Michigan, to be a member of the delegation, but last night Senator Couzens had not made his decision. Senator Couzens has been following closely the Morgan hearings and this factor, if nothing else, may force him to decline as Senators Hiram Johnson, of California, and Robert La Follette, of Wisconsin, have already done.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull spent several hours yesterday with the President reviewing final details of the conference program. The perspective of the conference is none too auspicious. The preliminary exchange of opinions that took place here between the President and ten of the eleven powers removed some of the preliminary difficulties. Many substantial objections are expected from the other nations at London and the fact that the President has not yet been able to get his tariff powers from Congress fod dealing with recalcitrant or dilatory nations is going to weaken the position of the American delegation.

The interconnection between the London economic conference and the Geova disarmament talks tends to become more apparent.

The action of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in withholding approval of the President's arms embargo and substituting another formula which runs counter to the "aggressor" principle of disarmament brought to Geneva by Norman H. Davis has caused some embarrassment in administration circles. Secretary Hull mildly understated his position when he said it was not in harmony with his concept. The Senate committee refused to approve an embargo against the "aggressor" nation without making it applicable to all parties to the dispute. In the case of the present Far Eastern dispute between China and Japan, the Senate's embargo would work to the

Maine Wrestler Enters Hospital in Arson Case

Bangor, Me., May 29 (A.P.).—Norman E. Moore, 25-year-old Ellsworth dishwasher and amateur wrestler, charged with arson after his alleged confession that he set the fire which laid waste a large part of his home city, today was ordered committed to the Bangor Hospital for Mental Observation.

Moore's commitment was ordered by Superior Court Justice George H. Worsted after a hearing at which Dr. Charles C. Knowlton, of Ellsworth, testified he had examined the prisoner and found him mentally deficient.

White House Support Given Inquiry Into Operations.

Pecora Plans to Push Probe Into Secrets of Banking.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

In its own private way, the Internal Revenue Bureau has undertaken a minute check between the reams of testimony and statistics recorded in the Senate investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co. and income tax returns filed for members of that firm.

As disclosed last night in quarters familiar with what's going on, while foundations for continuing the senatorial hearings took shape, closest official scrutiny is being given not only to the evidence made public but also to the yet guarded Morgan partnership agreement. It appears that the agreement has been examined in relation to the income tax returns.

White House Support.

Meanwhile Ferdinand Pecora—the investigating committee's counsel—said in New York that he would be back at the helm of the inquiry tomorrow despite attacks on his character.

Members of the committee supporting Pecora were encouraged yesterday by word from the White House that President Roosevelt wants the inquiry "to go through without limit" and has implicit confidence in the committee.

This they interpreted as White House approval of Pecora's methods in seeking to draw out secret operations of the Morgan firm.

Chairman Fletcher said he had been "satisfied the President would take that position" and asserted it would be "unthinkable" to drop the inquiry now.

Nevertheless, committee members expected the course of the inquiry to be challenged today at the committee's regular weekly meeting by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, who has criticized Pecora's methods.

Glass Receives Threats.

Glass told newspapermen yesterday he had received a letter threatening his "assassination" for his attitude toward the inquiry.

"Many more insulting letters that were not anonymous" also have been addressed to him, he disclosed, and said, "This is the result of the mob psychology the investigation has produced.

"These letters were sent me all because as a member of the committee I exercised my right to insist on knowing about what was going on."

Glass caused a stir in the inquiry Friday when he halted Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, and asked where the questions were leading.

As the time for resumption of the inquiry neared, interest heightened in

Convict Murdered By Gang in Crowd

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Joe Tropp, former convict and "receiver" for the Whittemore gang of jewel thieves, was shot to death by four men on the lower East Side tonight in the midst of a crowd of several hundred bystanders.

The victim was dumped unconscious into the gutter of Allen street, near Rivington street, from a green sedan. The four occupants got out, deliberately fired half a dozen shots into his head and chest, and then reentered the automobile and sped away northward.

An excited crowd of several thousand gathered quickly and a police emergency squad was called out to keep them in check.

GIRL SLAIN, ESCORT SHOT BY ATTACKERS

South Carolina Posse Hunts Pair in Auto Assault; Man May Die.

Spartanburg, S. C., May 29 (A.P.).—Miss Thelma Martin was killed and Madison Stone, her escort, was seriously wounded today, Stone told police, by two Negroes who attacked them in a country lane off the Greenville highway about 8 miles from here.

Stone said two Negro men passed his car in which he and Miss Martin were sitting a short time before the attack, and then returned, one of them with a gun.

Shot and Beaten.

He said they forced him and the girl to leave the car and enter the woods, where they ordered him to undress. As he was doing so, one of the Negroes shot him through the abdomen and the two then beat him on the head with sticks.

He said he lost consciousness, but believed he regained it within 15 minutes, to find himself buried beneath dirt and leaves as though he had been left for dead. The girl was not in sight.

Hundreds in Manhunt.

Making his way back to his car, Stone drove down the highway and met a farmer who brought him to town, where he reported the attack and went to a hospital. Attaches there were not optimistic regarding his chances for recovery.

Officers hurried to the spot and found the girl's body in a clump of bushes. Soon hundreds had joined the manhunt.

CONFERENCE CALLED OF MANUFACTURERS

day's emergency conference, Lund said, were dispatched by wire last night to all parts of the country. He said he anticipated more than 1,000 manufacturers would attend the conference.

A new tax plan, under which income tax payers would be assessed a flat 10 per cent more than they now pay, was proposed to the Senate Finance Committee yesterday by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, as a means of financing the public works section of the industry bill.

The Connally plan would retain the same rates as are now in effect. He explained that under the 10 per cent provision the person receiving the larger income would pay more taxes, whereas, he said, under the present plan approved by the House, the man of small incomes would have his tax increased 50 per cent.

Connally put his plan before the committee after James A. Emery, counsel for the National Manufacturers Association, had proposed a sales tax. Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, has advocated the imposition of a similar levy.

Sales Tax Attacked.

The recommendation for a sales tax, Connally said, was put forth "merely as an excuse to escape income taxes."

While the Senate committee was moving ahead with hearings on the industry-public works program, another link was rounding into shape in the administration's business improvement program. The Senate passed the Wagner bill to create a Federal-State employment service to find free jobs for unemployed. It goes to the House where action is expected soon.

The hearings before the Senate Finance Committee brought the end of arguments for and against the program submitted by Secretary Ickes for Federal regulation of the oil industry, which the Interior Department suggested as an amendment to the industrial bill.

Many Amendments Offered.

While Chairman Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, and committee members were speeding the hearings in an effort to conclude tomorrow so the bill might be reported to the Senate by Friday or Saturday, amendments began pouring into the Senate.

One by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, sought to provide $100,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation to buy stock in solvent but unliquid closed banks, and to stipulate that bank assets must be given a "normal" value by Federal examiners, rather than current depressed quotations.

Another, by Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, proposed that any construction that could be utilized for the National Defense be included in the public works program, along with a provision of preference for domestic goods in building.

Business Dictator Busy.

Hugh S. Johnson, who will head the industry control-public works activities, was working at the innumerable details necessary to send the work ahead promptly after congressional approval.

It became known yesterday that Gen. Johnson was not only President Roosevelt's selection to administer the industrial regulation sections of the legislation, but that he is also in line to direct expenditures under the public works program.

Moving into offices in the new Commerce Department Building, Gen. Johnson has begun tentatively by unofficially creating his staff. The Chief Executive desires the bill to become actively effective almost concurrently with the attachment of his signature.

Richberg Is Selected.

Johnson is understood to have selected Donald Richberg, counsel for the Association of Railway Labor Executives, to represent labor in development of the industry-public works program. Richberg, one of the principal drafters of the bill, is to be an assistant administrator charged with viewing each trade agreement that is presented with the intention of assuring protection for labor.

Opposition was expressed yesterday to one section of the industrial regulation legislation by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who suggested revisions "to make perfectly clear that the principles of true open shop operation are not contravened."

Alexandria Chest Clinic.

A three-day chest clinic was opened yesterday at the Alexandria city health office. Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, announced the examintaions will be by Dr. H. A. Latane and Dr. Llewellyn Powell, chest specialists. Examinations are from 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning and X-ray tests from 1:30 to 5 p. m.

Miss Alice Brennan Maid of Honor at Maryland University Fete.

In the proverbial green setting of an outdoor amphitheater where nymphs and spring held sway to the lilt of the flute and the violin, Miss Marian M. Bates, 3835 Livingston street northwest, yesterday was crowned Queen of the May at the University of Maryland.

Seated on the throne as first maid of honor was Miss Alice M. Brennan, 4210 Twelfth street northeast. Also among the royal entourage were Misses Marjorie L. Willoughby, Hurlock, Md., second maid of honor; Marjorie R. Mowatt, College Park, Md., third maid of honor; Betty Owen, Lanham, Md., fourth maid of honor, and Mary E. Bonthron, Baltimore, fifth maid of honor.

Crowned with the wreath and veil of distinction, Miss Bates, a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority, ascended her throne as the opening feature of the university's annual May Day.

As the orchestra played a "procession of mortals" entered the "sacred grove" for the opening episode of "The Spring Maiden," a pageant staged by girls of the under classes.

In the magic valley, Iduna, a spring maiden, held sway.

The story deals with the interference in the magic valley at the entrance of the Prince of Mischief. While Iduna kneels in prayer at the altar after the solemn ceremony by the people of the land, the intruder steals the basket of golden fruit offered as a token of thanksgiving and supplication.

Iduna pursues, but is not able to overtake him. A council of the gods followed. Heimdal describes the theft and names the Prince of Mischief as Loki. Odin sends his Valkyrias to seize Loki. The culprit is duly punished and finally redeems himself.

The part of Iduna was played by Irene Knox. Loki by Erna Mae Behrend, and Heimdal by June Barnsley. Others taking part included Helen Spiro as the High Priest, Mildred Neill as the Storm Giant, Kathryn Terhune as the Snow Maiden, Helen Spire as Odin and Elsie Dunn as Thor.

12 Hurt as Train Strikes School Bus

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29 (A.P.).—Twelve children were injured, two seriously, when a bus loaded with 22 pupils of schools for the crippled and deaf and dumb was struck today by an electric train.

All the injured, ranging in age from 5 to 14 years, were taken to the Emergency Hospital. Arlene Bey, 12, and Ervin Linski, suffered possible skull fractures. The others were cut and bruised.

The train struck in the middle of the bus, shoved it aside without upsetting it. James Bowes, the driver, was unhurt. Detained by police for questioning, he insisted he stopped before driving onto the tracks.

Husband Kills Rival in Duel

Each Opens Fire When Fellow Workman Is Found at Estranged Wife's Home; Spouse Dying From His Wounds.

Leipsic, Ohio, May 29 (U.P.).—An enraged husband and the man he accused of stealing his wife's love stood at ten paces tonight and fought a gun duel that ended with the second man dead and the husband dying.

Andrew Goldsberry, 24, the husband, started the shooting, police said, when he found David Gregor, 31, in the house where his estranged wife was living.

The men emptied their guns at each other, filled the weapons and emptied them again before Gregory fell mortally wounded down a flight of stairs, fired one last shot at Goldsberry, and slumped to the floor, dead.

Goldsberry's wife, Octavia, 20-year-old mother of three children, reconstructed the scene that led to the shooting in her story to police.

She and her husband had been separated for five months, she said, and she had been living with his mother, Mrs. John Mason. Her husband, she added, had made several attempts to effect a reconciliation since filing suit for divorce.

Late today, Mrs. Goldsberry told police, her husband came to the home, asked her to come and live with him again, and became enraged when she refused.

Rushing upstairs, he came face to face with Gregor, a former fellow workman. Without a word, both men drew revolvers and opened fire.

When his first round of bullets was exhausted, Gregor, wounded several times, reloaded his gun. Goldsberry did likewise.

Suddenly Gregor slumped at the head of the stairs and rolled to the bottom. Regaining his feet, he fired one last shot at Goldsberry, staggered out on the porch, and fell dead.

EUROPEAN SUGGESTS WORK MOBILIZATION

Would Create Nation-Wide Pool of Thought for Creation of Jobs.

A plan to end unemployment, by which a voluntary mobilization of the Nation at large would provide the impetus, has been brought to this country by Herman Scherbak, prominent European.

Mr. Scherbak's project has the indorsement of many of Europe's leading economists and governmental leaders, who believe that it affords a way toward an immediate and sound solution of the problem.

Briefly, the plan calls for the organizing of voluntary workers on a Nation-wide scale through "enlistment" blanks at postoffices and similar places.

Through these blanks the citizens would volunteer to give an hour a week of their time toward handling of suggestions, giving advice on projects which would make employment and enlisting the aid of others.

From such a beginning, with committees operating for each 100,000 population, Mr. Scherbak believes that work would be created and through an intense country-wide interest swell into sufficient proportions to go far toward ending unemployment.

Through the committee, appeals to the entire nation would be made for suggestions for work, great and small. Towards these suggestions, the committee composed of men and women from all professions and callings would place expert opinion and attempt to put the thought into action.

Mr. Scherbak says:

"This movement will create specialists in the fight against unemployment of a capacity not known until today. It's execution will do a great deal to prevent the exploitation of the unemployed and reduce the urge for war."

$675,000 PLEDGED TO HAMILTON BANK

Commercial Bank and United States Savings Bank.

Entry of the last institution into the merger plan is protested by Col. Wade H. Cooper, its president and majority stockholder, who has submitted a plan to the Treasury Department for reopening the bank independently.

Col. Cooper said his plan was designed to make available for depositors 75 cents on the dollar instead of 50 cents. He declared last night that he was confident that it would be approved in preference to the merger into the Hamilton.

Franklin National Bank, which has secured 90 per cent of the agreements of its stockholders and depositors to reopen that bank independently, is directing an intensive campaign to secure a full response before the week is ended.

Filing of claims by creditors of Commercial National Bank, now in the hands of a receiver, began yesterday.

JUDGE LOWELL HIT BY SUPREME COURT

Ruling Criticizes Discussion of Narcotics Case in Charge to Jury.

(Associated Press.)

Without mentioning his name, the Supreme Court in a decision yesterday by Chief Justice Hughes, to which there was no dissent, severely criticized Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Massachusetts, for his handling of a criminal case.

Angelo Quercia, of Somerville, Mass., was convicted of violating the Harrison narcotic act. He contended the conviction was obtained by Judge Lowell's exceeding the bounds of fair comment and argued that the judge had committed an error which entitled him to a new trial.

Chief Justice Hughes pointed out that Judge Lowell in his instructions to the jury had said:

"And now I am going to tell you what I think of the defendant's testimony. You have noticed, Mr. foreman and gentlemen, that he wiped his hands during his testimony.

Jury Instructions Rapped.

"It is a rather curious thing, but that is almost always an indication of lying. Why it should be so we don't know, but that is a fact.

"I think that every single word that man said, except when he agreed with the Government's testimony, was a lie."

Emphasizing the importance of instructions by trial judges to the jury, and the right of such judges to explain and comment on the evidence, the decision declared "this privilege of the judge to comment on the facts has its inherent limitations."

Chief Justice Hughes said it was "to be exercised in conformity with the standards governing the judicial office. In commenting upon testimony, he may not assume the role of a witness."

The Chief Justice said it was for the jury to test the credibility of a witness, giving his testimony such weight as the members thought it deserved. He added that under the circumstances it was prejudicial to the defendant for the trial judge to comment unfavorably upon his general character.

Is Termed Denunciation.

"In the instant case the trial judge did not analyze the evidence; he added to it, and he based his instructions upon his own addition," the decision declared.

"He did not review the evidence to assist the jury in reaching the truth, but in a sweeping denunciation repudiated as a lie all that the accused had said in his behalf which conflicted with the statement of the Government's witnesses. This was error, and we can not doubt it was highly prejudicial."

In reversing the action of the First Circuit Court of Appeals, which had sustained Judge Lowell, the high court declared that "his (Judge Lowell's) characterization of the manner and testimony of the accused was of a sort most likely to remain firmly lodged in the memory of the jury and to excite a prejudice which would preclude a fair and dispassionate consideration of the evidence."

The House Judiciary Committee is now investigating the action of Judge Lowell in ordering the release of George Crawford, Negro, wanted in Virginia on the charge of murder, the judge having taken the position Crawford would be denied a fair trial in Virginia because Negroes do not serve on juries there.

OXON HILL CHILD, 6, KILLED ON HIGHWAY

Wisconsin Woman Is Driver of Auto in Accident Near School.

Running across the road to have some one see if a letter taken from the mail box was "for Daddy," 6-year-old Doris Shegogue, of Oxon Hill, Md., was struck by an automobile yesterday and almost instantly killed.

The car, according to Maryland State police, was operated by Miss Carol D. Joire, 23, Green Bay, Wis., who had been visiting her uncle, Lieut. Comdr. Harry E. Lafaure, U. S. N., stationed at Indian Head, Md. Miss Joire was charged with having no Maryland driver's license.

Doris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shegogue, was returning from the Oxon Hill School, which is diagonally opposite her home. With her were Herbert Talbert, 7, a schoolboy patrolman, and Violet Cowan, 6, a schoolmate.

When the children were in front of Doris' home, a car coming from the direction of Washington stopped to ask Herbert directions. Doris and Violet crossed the road and found a letter in the Shegogue mail box. They then recrossed the road, behind the parked car, to find someone to read the address.

Suddenly Doris, it is believed, spied C. D. Foote, county road patrolman, seated in a parked car on the side of the road from which she had come.

Out she dashed from behind the car which had stopped to learn directions, and into the path of the Joire car, headed toward Washington, witnesses said. She was picked up by E. W. Cowan, father of Violet, placed in another passing car and rushed to Dr. Russell K. Hollingsworth, 2015 Nichols avenue southeast, where she died. Death was attributed to a fractured skull.

2 Women Injured As Autos Collide

Mrs. Frederick Woodward, sister-in-law of the late S. W. Woodward, one of the founders of Woodward & Lothrop's, and Mrs. Ora Belle Dickenson, were painfully hurt yesterday in an automobile collision near their home at 4026 Illinois avenue.

They were riding in a car operated by the Rev. Julian H. Strong, Mrs. Dickenson's son, which was in collision with the car of Louis J. Whot, of 1506 Hamilton street northwest. Both remained at Emergency Hospital, where they were taken for treatment of cuts and bruises.

SURPLUS FUNDS USE BY DISTRICT IS ASKED

McLeod Introduces Bill to Allow Tax Revenues to Meet Emergencies.

The District Commissioners would be empowered to expend surplus District tax revenues accumulating in the Treasury for public works and emergency relief under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Clarence J. McLod (Republican), Michigan.

The measure, which supplements bills for District representation in Congress and greater local self-government already introduced by the Michigan representative, is designed to insure for District citizens "the maximum benefit possible in public services in return for the taxes they pay," he said.

Pointing out that only $1,000 is made available in the 1934 District appropriations bill to take care of any emergency that might arise while Congress is not in session, he said many vitally necessary projects, such as welfare relief and street repairs, must await congressional action before funds can be expended, no matter how great the emergency.

Representative McLeod estimated that the District's revenue surplus will reach over $2,000,000 during the coming fiscal year.

"The appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1934 carries an appropriation of $1,500,000 for relief work in the District," Mr. McLeod commented.

About 8,000 families are now on the city welfare rolls, with new applications being received at the rate of 50 or more daily. Approximately $50,000 is required weekly to furnish the barest necessities of life to these 8,000 families, which does not include any relief whatsoever for the many unemployed single men in the District of Columbia.

"If present conditions continue throughout the coming year, $2,500,000, instead of $1,500,000, will be required for welfare relief. If, when the present funds are exhausted, the Congress is not in session, and a deficiency appropriation therefore impossible, a serious situation could only be averted by allowing the Board of Commissioners to expend the necessary money from the surplus funds."

minority member, to strike out the retroactive provision affecting existing contracts was defeated 363 to 78 on a motion to send the measure back to the Banking Committee.

Democrats also beat this amendment down by an earlier voice vote as they did another Luce proposal to limit the provisions for a two-year period. Amendments by McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, designed to make the foreign governments pay in gold, and by Hoeppel (Democrat), California, to tax Government bonds, were voted down.

On final passage, 250 Democrats were joined by 28 Republicans and 5 Farmer Laborites in voting for the measure.

Forty-eight Republicans and nine Democrats voted against the resolution. The Democratic bolters were Black, New York; Boehne, Indiana; Brown, Michigan; Claiborne, Missouri; Farley, Indiana; Feisenger, Ohio; Huddleston, Alabama; Pettingill, Indiana, and Thom, Ohio.

McFadden Assails Measure.

Representative McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, said the bill was in direct opposition to the Democratic party platform "upon which Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President."

"The Democratic administration, in violation to its campaign pledges and its party platform, is now endeavoring to foist upon this country currency of no value," he said.

"It has given the gold and lawful money of the country to the international money Jews of whom Franklin D. Roosevelt is the familiar and it has sent this bold and dishonest bill here so that it may have the pleasure of seeing Congress jump through another hoop and turn another somersault under the whip of the ringmaster."

Defending the measure, Representative Hancock (Democrat), North Carolina, a members of the Banking Committee, said:

"The measure, when enacted, will give the United States for its monetary standard, the Golden Rule, in place of the rule of gold."

"If you pass this bill," Luce told the House, "it will go down in history and stay there forever as the repudiation bill passed by the repudiation Congress."

The formal report on the measure, prepared by Undersecretary Acheson of the Treasury, said:

"The occasion for the declaration in the resolution that the gold clauses are contrary to public policy arises out of the experience of the present emergency."

Tendency to Hoard Gold.

Two things developed during the emergency, the report said, which make the enforcement of the gold clauses incompatible with the public interest.

"The first," it said, "is the tendency which has developed internally to hoard gold; the second is the tendency for capital to leave the country."

With the Treasury preparing to engineer a financial operation in June involving $2,000,000,000 it was explained that the issuance of bonds without the gold clause would affect the "medium upon which the entire credit and currency structure rests."

A little later Senator Metcalf (Republican), Rhode Island, said in a formal statement the administration bill to permit payment of gold clause contracts in legal tender money "simply means that the Government breaks faith with its creditors."

He added that the effect of such inflation as may follow enactment of the bill "may be the complete destruction of our whole financial system."

Reds Riot at School Drill

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the College of the City of New York, swung his umbrella today on a crowd of demonstrators who blocked the way of him and his party to Lewisohn Stadium where they viewed the annual military exercises of the R. O. T. C. unit of the college.

With the college president were Gen. John J. Byrne, Col. George C. Lewis, professor of military science and tactics; Mrs. Nancy Lyman Otis, and Mrs. Clinton B. Turck.

A crowd of some 300 had been holding a demonstration outside the stadium for an hour or so, with speakers and placards protesting military training at the college, when Dr. Robinson and his party appeared.

The demonstrators rushed toward them, booing, shouting and waving poles from which the placards had fallen. Dr. Robinson lashed out with his umbrella until a squad of 20 policemen broke through and cleared a way for them into the stadium.

No one was injured and no arrests were made.

Many of the demonstrators were students, but Dr. Robertson issued a formal statement later saying most of them "were probably communists from outside." He recognized only one student. He declined to name him, but said he would report the student to the trustees for disciplinary action.

PECORA DETERMINED TO COMPLETE PROBE

"They Are Not Going to Stop Me," He Asserts in New York.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Undeterred by attacks on his character, Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the Senate banking investigation committee, announced today he was "going right on through" with his probe into private banking practices. He said that he was satisfied with the progress thus far and that he had no fear of threats nor would he be deterred by attacks upon his character.

"They are not going to stop me in any way, shape or form," he said.

Told that President Roosevelt had informed the Senate committee he wanted the investigation of J. P. Morgan & Co. and other private bankers to be rushed forward "without limit," the young attorney declared: "And I say 'amen!'"

Challenges Accuser.

He challenged J. C. Hackett, a former deputy police commissioner, to "come along with his proof" of charges made to Senator Couzens to the effect that Pecora was guilty of irregularities as an assistant district attorney.

Even lack of funds, he indicated, would be slow to stop the investigation.

"I asked for $75,000," he said. "Only $20,000 was appropriated. But I want to emphasize this: No one connected with the investigation, whether he be attorney, accountant or anything else, is getting more than $255 a month—and very few are getting that. If no more money is appropriated we still can push along for two or three more months."

He revealed that he will again question J. P. Morgan, and will call five or six more Morgan partners to the stand before he is through with that phase of the investigation. He said that George H. Howard, president of the United Corporation, would continue on the stand Wednesday.

To Bare Security Methods.

One of his interviewers—questioning him as he munched on a belated lunch—asked if he intended to show how foreign bonds were floated.

"I have from the start taken the stand that I would not indicate in advance what was going to be presented," he said. "I'll depart from that position to the extent of saying now that we hope to bring out the general methods by which bankers marketed securities in which they were interested."

After outlining the purpose of the Senate investigation as being "to develop a factual basis for such immediate legislation as Congress may see fit," he remarked that it had been shown in the hearings the income tax "is not a tax on incomes."

"Large incomes can be offset by capital losses," he said. "Small incomes can not."

KIDNAPERS HUNTED AS VICTIM FORGIVES

Kansas City Manager and Daughter Disagree on Catching Culprits.

Kansas City, May 29 (A.P.).—While Miss Mary McElroy asserted she felt no malice toward the men who kidnaped her and exacted $30,000 in ransom for her release yesterday, her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager, directed police in a relentless search today for the abductors.

As the hunt proceeded with Federal, State and city authorities coordinating their efforts, T. A. J. Mastin, county prosecutor, said he would demand the death penalty if the men are captured and brought to trial.

"If any kidnaping was an obvious example of one that would come under the death provision of the law, this one was," Mastin declared.

In contrast to the attitude of the prosecutor and her father, the 25-year-old victim of the abduction today said, "I don't believe I'd like to see any of these men go to the penitentiary. I still can't feel any malice toward them. They treated me with such consideration."

RESPECT FOR PACTS ASSURED BY DANZIG

Nazi Victor Asserts Views to Quiet Polish Fears of New Control.

Berlin, May 29 (A.P.).—The assertion that the Danzig Free State will respect its constitution and its treaties under all circumstances was made today by Hermann Rauschning, who will become head of the Danzig senate as a result of the Nazi victory in yesterday's elections.

This assurance was calculated to quiet the fears of Poland, which has been anxious lest Nazi control of Danzig lead to untoward acts.

Herr Rauschning, who as president of the free city senate will be chief of the government, came to Berlin for a series of conferences with political leaders. Commenting on the Nazi victory yesterday he said:

"Measures which were possible in Germany after the national revolution can be adopted in Danzig only by legislation. The Jewish problem plays no role.

"We Nazis are ready to clear the atmosphere with reference to all Polish-Danzig questions, but only on a basis of mutuality."

German news reports from Warsaw indicated that yesterday's Nazi landslide was being taken quietly by the entire Polish press.

Polish newspapers, a Wolff (German) News Agency report said, expressed confidence that the Danzig constitution and the treaties with Poland would be respected by the new Nazi government of the free city.

Presbyterians End General Assembly

Montreat, N. C., May 29 (A.P.).—Ending its shortest session, the seventy-third general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States adjourned sine die today after adopting a number of resolutions and appointing two important committees.

Dr. Ernest Thompson, of Charleston, W. Va., moderator, announced just before adjournment the personnel of a committee to study the question of reaffiliation with the Federal Council of Churches and another report on increasing the efficiency and effecting economies of the general assembly.

A proposal to establish another committee, on social and moral problems, was ruled out of order by Moderator Thompson.

FOG OFF CALIFORNIA GROUNDS TWO SHIPS

Pacific "Graveyard," Where Seven Warships Crashed, Holds Vessels Fast.

San Pedro, Calif., May 29 (A.P.).—Betrayed by heavy fog in the perilous "graveyard of the Pacific" off the Coast of Santa Barbara County, two damaged ocean vessels were fast aground today, some 20 miles apart, but the crew of neither was believed to be in danger.

The 5,842-ton Japanese oil tanker Nippon Maru, with about 35 or 40 men aboard, was caught on the same treacherous reef on which seven United States naval destroyers crashed in 1923 with a loss of 23 lives, and on which the liner Harvard was wrecked two years ago tomorrow.

Damaged in collision with another schooner, the steamer Chehalis was aground broadside to the beach a mile and a half from Government Point.

It was believed the stranded vessels could be floated only with great difficulty, if at all.

The lumber schooner J. B. Stetson, with which the Chehalis collided, headed for her Long Beach Harbor dock, apparently undamaged.

The salvage tug Peacock was sent to the Nippon Maru. Coast Guard boats sped to the Chehalis to stand by pending floating attempts.

Weather in the "graveyard" area was reported calm and there seemed little likelihood of further damage to the ships.

Roses Lure

Beautiful Blooms Charm in Setting of Green in Potomac Park.

Myriads of multicolored roses lifting their blooms amid a setting of verdant charm are at the height of their flower to greet Memorial Day observers today in the gardens west of Fourteenth street along Riverside drive.

Flanked on one side by the waters of the Potomac and completely surrounded by the winding drives of Potomac Park, the rose gardens present an arboreal spectacle rivaling the display of Japanese cherry blossoms. Trellises and pillars support the twining bushes crowned by the red and yellow glory of the many blooms. New and unusual varieties greet the visitors who circle the gardens by automobile or walk through and admire the flowers.

Shaded lights make the gardens visible at night and focus brighter beams at the two fountains at opposite ends of the large rose bower. On all sides evergreen shrubbery has been planted under the direction of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, to provide a proper background for the roses.

Dr. V. L. Ellicott, Montgomery County health officer, yesterday announced that after an extensive survey of physicians of the Chevy Chase-Bethesda area, he found no epidemic of scarlet fever, as had been rumored extensively through the suburban sections.

Dr. Ellicott said there had been but two cases reported this spring, the last one more than ten days ago. The health officer said that because of the prevalence of epidemic rumors he decided to make a thorough check and contacted all physicians in the area, but could find no such outbreak.

Roosevelt to Ease War Victims' Cuts

(Associated Press.)

The Roosevelt administration was reported authoritatively last night to be planning to ease the reductions ordered in disability allowances applying to veterans wounded in combat.

Just how much money is involved in this liberalization of the strict economy regulations is uncertain, but it was disclosed that both President Roosevelt and Director Douglas of the Budget favor such relaxation.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt went over the problem of veterans' economies in a lengthy meeting yesterday with representatives of the House Democratic caucus, at which modifications in the drastic economy regulations were requested.

Representative Crosser, of Ohio, the chairman of the Democratic steering committee, announced after the White House parley: "I am much pleased with the President's interest in the subject and his attitude toward it."

DETECTIVE IS SLAIN BY 6 BANK ROBBERS

Clerk and Two Bandits Are Wounded in Holdup Wave; "Pretty Boy" Sought.

(Associated Press.)

A detective was killed and two officers, a bank clerk and two robbers were wounded in three bank holdups yesterday, which netted little more than $20,000.

The series of holdups occurred at Rensselaer, N. Y.; Paris, Ark., and Culver, Ind.

Six men, armed with submachine guns, calmly walked into the Rensselaer County Bank shortly before noon, lined customers and clerks against a wall and proceeded to loot the vaults.

A clerk, however, had quietly touched a police alarm, summoning two detectives from headquarters, two blocks away. As the detectives entered the bank they were met with a wave of machine-gun bullets and fell to the floor. One of them, Charles Stevens, died a few minutes later, and his colleague, Frederick Rabe, was wounded. The robbers, who, in the excitement, grabbed only $2,000, escaped in a waiting automobile. Rabe tentatively identified a picture of Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Oklahoma outlaw, as that of one of the bandits.

In Paris, Ark., two men, guns drawn, forced four clerks and three customers into a vault of the First National Bank. After taking all the cash in the tills and vault, they started for the door, where they met and shot Dolph Guthrie, a teller, and Andy Connaughton, city marshal. A customer, standing on the sidewalk, tackled one bandit and held him. The second escaped. The amount of cash he obtained was undetermined.

Five men held up the State Exchange Bank at Culver, Ind., and in an exciting gun battle with pursuers, two of them were wounded and captured. The others escaped with $16,000.

German Journal Ordered Stopped

Berlin, May 29 (A.P.).—The German government today forbade publication of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung for three months for criticism of the government's retaliation against Austria.

The government recently fixed a visa charge of 1,000 marks for visits to Austria as a token of displeasure at the cold welcome which German Nazi officials received when they went to Vienna.

The independent criticism by this newspaper and its moderation of view made it one of the most popular German journals since the suppression of other organs. The Allgemeine Zeitung was distinguished by its pro-Hitler policy in republican days.

11 Austrian Nazi Students Wounded

Innsbruck, Austria, May 29 (A.P.) Eleven Nazi students were wounded by bullets, four seriously, tonight as a Nazi demonstration near the fascist heimwehr (home guard) headquarters was climaxed by a pistol battle. Troops were called out and finally restored order. Twenty-one persons were injured by clubs or bayonets.

The shooting started when the gendarmerie, with bayonets, drove the students in the direction of the heimwehr headquarters. The guards thinking the Nazi were advancing to attack, opened fire.

Troops were stationed in the city with machine guns poised and barbed wire barricades were strung along the streets. At midnight all was quiet.

HERRIOT SEEKS NEW LAUSANNE SCHEME

U. S. Asked to Cooperate by Granting Moratorium on French Debt.

Paris, May 29 (A.P.).—A new Lausanne settlement to supplement the old one of last July when the reparations problem was readjusted was urged upon the United States today by Edouard Herriott in reporting to the French Chamber of Deputies upon his recent conversations with President Roosevelt at Washington.

"If they (United States) refuse an accord on debts, they will destroy the edifice for which we have paid our part," declared the former premier, who was forced from office last December when he unsuccessfully urged that France make the debt payment to America.

Premier Daladier disclosed that he had instructed M. Herriot, on going to Washington last month, to ask for a moratorium upon the June 15 payment, and to seek negotiations for revision of the Franco-American debt settlement.

M. Herriot was to urge these two requests as conditions upon which France would pay the defaulted interest instalment of last December.

The chamber debate was adjourned until June 9 after the former premier had reported on his Washington visit.

A packed chamber heard M. Herriot report that President Roosevelt wanted three truces: on tariffs, debts and armaments.

Mr. Roosevelt, M. Herriot said, insisted that France should pay the December instalments before negotiations for a new arrangements on the question could begin.

One Killed in Boat Blast; 15 Rescued

Ogdensburg, N. Y., May 29 (A.P.).—One man drowned and fifteen others leaped overboard, to be rescued by a tug, as a drill boat working in the St. Lawrence River near Chippewa Bay, not far from here, was torn by an explosion and then burned to the water's edge early today. The man who lost his life was Perkins Reynolds, of Alexandria Bay. He was in the compression room of the boat.

The scene of the accident was the same as that of a similar explosion on the drill boat America in July of last year which resulted in seven deaths.

The boat in today's blast was owned by the R. C. Huffman Construction Co., of Cleveland, Ohio. It was anchored off the north shore of Dark Island. The rescue tug was proceeding to that island at the time of the explosion.

HEAD OF REICHSBANK ASKS DEBT LENIENCY

Tells German Creditors That Financial Collapse Is Facing Nation.

Berlin, May 29 (U.P.).—Germany, today warned a conference of her foreign creditors that unless a temporary cessation of the transfer abroad of payments of her debts were permitted immediately, the nation faced a financial collapse worse than the 1923 period of inflation.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, threw the country on the mercy of the creditors, gathered here from all over the world to figure out some method of lessening the pressure on Germany and at the same time getting something out of their short and long term loans.

Dr. Schacht proposed that the creditors permit what amounts to a moratorium on all credits, at least temporarily. He urged that they permit immediate cessation of transfer of part of the country's foreign liabilities to foreign nations, leaving the cash inside Germany.

Otherwise, he declared, the depression of the mark would be inevitable, precipitating an even graver disaster than in 1923—when the mark fell to fantastic depths.

The conference of creditors adjourned until tomorrow morning to study Dr. Schacht's presentation of Germany's case. Among the 29 foreign representatives were delegates from the United States, England, France, Holland, Sweden and Switzerland.

Blonde Disappears At Banker's Arrest

Los Angeles, May 29 (A.P.).—Accused of stealing $58,000 from the Allentown, N. J., bank of which he was former teller, Morgan N. Buchalew told United States deputy marshals today, they said, that he was at the end of a golden trail of pleasure and ready to "face the music."

An attractive blonde girl who was with Buchalew, alias John O. Buck, when he was arrested last night aboard the liner Santa Rosa as it came into Los Angeles Harbor, disappeared shortly afterward with her mother, who met the couple at the boat. The girl was listed on the passenger roll as "Mrs. Buck." Officers said she knew nothing of the case against Buchalew.

Deputy Marshall Vincent Mangerina, who made the arrest, said Buchalew told him he would go willingly back to Allentown, and would restore to the bank $40,000 he still retained of the money.

Problem of Distribution Greatest, Filene Asserts

Vienna, May 29 (A.P.).—The principal problem before world economic leaders today is how to distribute goods as effectively as they are produced, Edward A. Filene Boston merchant and philanthropist, told the opening session of the seventh congress of the International Chamber of Commerce here today.

"It is high time," the delegate from the United States said, "for us to notice that rationalized mass production without rationalized mass distribution is the most irrational thing imaginable."

Women's Fire Group Will Meet on Thursday

The Women's Auxiliary of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Fire Department will hold its monthly meeting at Branchville, Md., Thursday, it was announced yesterday.

The auxiliary has just completed the celebration of its third anniversary. One of the features of this celebration was a conclave at the Masonic Hall in Hyattsville. The address of welcome on this occasion was given by Dr. H. T. Willis, mayor of the town. Among the other speakers were State Senator L. H. Sasscer, J. F. Lillard and Noel Joeffre, president of the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association.

REVENUE BUREAU IS SCANNING TAXES PAID BY MORGAN'S FIRM

the new lists of Morgan special clients expected to be placed before the investigators.

Sales of stock at bargain prices to prominent figures in the business world were denounced in the Senate yesterday by La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, as "gratuities distributed by J. P. Morgan & Co."

Calling attention to names on the two lists already laid before the committee, La Follette said they showed 4 officers and 47 members of the New York Chamber of Commerce had received "gratuities of $5,130,760" from the Morgan firm.

Treadway Defends Davis.

A statement on the House side by Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, demanding an investigation of the business relations of Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, brought a quick defense of Davis from Representative Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts, who said such an inquiry would be "entirely unnecessary."

Treadway said Davis' "life and career are an open book," and that his "honesty and integrity have never been questioned." Davis borrowed money several years ago, most of which he has repaid.

Among the other developments yesterday was the statement by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, that J. C. Hackett, of New York, was author of some of the charges made to him against Pecora. In New York Hackett was said to be secretary to former Police Commissioner Enright.

Pecora announced he would return to Washington today to get ready for the hearing tomorrow, and said he would again call J. P. Morgan, senior partner of the great banking house. He also said he would call "five or six" more of the Morgan partners. Eleven of them have been subpoenaed.

Word that the Internal Revenue Bureau was going minutely into the testimony in connection with the income tax returns added interest to the disclosure yesterday that in 1930 and 1931, when the partners in the firm paid total income taxes of $48,000, gross profits from the sale of securities were nearly $10,000,000.

Profits of this amount were reported by the firm to committee investigators and placed in the record by Pecora.

Morgan partners have not denied that profits were made in those years, but testified that deductions permitted them under the law, particularly capital losses, wiped out their taxable profits.

Reports to the committee by the firm showed the profits from selling and underwriting securities was greater in 1930 and 1931 than in 1929, when they paid an income tax of $11,000,000.

Minimize Security Phase.

In their testimony before the committee last week, Morgan partners emphasized that their security business was only a small part of their total operations.

The profits they reported for the three years, all gross returns before deductions of overhead, follow:

1931, $3,131,000.

In addition, the Morgan firm reported among its joint account and syndicate activities a profit of $1,853,959 in 1930 from an operation in Procter & Gamble stock.

Many additional profits were listed in blocks of stock, the value of which could not be computed.

AUSTIN WILL HEAD SENATE MILK QUIZ

istration has been called in by the distributors and the producers to use its functions to stabilize milk prices. In the District, the administration has been moved to action by the numerous complaints lodged with it by consumers who believe that distributors are charging extortionate prices for their product.

Producers Approve.

The scrutiny of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration of the local milk market has been approved by producers, who are interested in the spread between the prices they receive for their products and the price charged to the consumer.

The attention of the Senate subcommittee will not only be focused on milk prices, but one of its principal objectives is to learn whether there is a monopoly in existence in Washington, which is operating to the prejudice of the consumer.

In addition, the committee will inquire into the reason for the high prices charged to Washington consumers for other dairy products.

LONDON PARLEY DELEGATION TO LEAVE HERE TOMORROW

disadvantage of China, the country most in need of the restrictions of the arms measure.

Secretary Hull declared yesterday that just as almost all wars in the last hundred years have had an economic reason for being, a successful economic conference may have a powerful effect on the general subject of disarmament at Geneva. The inability of countries to dispose of their manufactured surpluses has resulted in a heightening of nationalistic tempers and tariffs to the destruction of the peace of the world.

There were some indications last night that the economic barriers against which Secretary Hull has so unremittingly declaimed may not after all figure so prominently in the talks at London. They will be relegated to a subordinate role in the talks, due to the absence of unequivocal assurances from all the countries to whom the American tariff truce was extended. The usual agreement in principle was the best measure of agreement that this country received and as a result, the suspicious air of the conference suddenly failed to materialize.

To Stress Monetary Items.

The American delegation will strive to effect a general agreement on the monetary rather than on the economic features of the agenda. Assistant Secretary Moley has had an all-important influence in bringing about this gradual evolution of the American program. He insisted that the best interests of this country will be served at London, as well as elsewhere, if the first consideration of national leaders is toward domestic economic conditions, rather than the comparatively small 10 per cent of export production. For this reason there has come about a growing emphasis on the purely financial aspects of the agenda at London, where an agreement may be accomplished to the most immediate advantage of all the nations, with the loss of the least amount of personal privilege.

The exchange of views which President Roosevelt had here with the leaders of 10 of the 11 powers invited to Washington revealed a greater unanimity of opinion on the problems of world finance than on the more individualized problems of tariffs and tariff quotas. There was a general desire on the part of all the delegations, British, French, Japanese and German, to see stabilization of money at the earliest possible moment. This may take the form of a de facto stabilization at the outset of the conference to enhance the atmosphere of optimism.

Morrison Named Advisor.

The increase in commodity prices which has been reflected in world conditions on all exchanges in the last month will be the principal care of the American delegates. The methods to be employed in holding the present price level will be a general agreement among the central banks to make money cheaper by reducing the rediscount rates, the liquidation of large surpluses and a coordinated building program which will increase gradually as economic conditions improve.

Ralph W. Morrison, of San Antonio, Tex., will accompany the delegation as an advisor, it became known here yesterday after Mr. Morrison accompanied the Secretary of State, Senator Key Pittman and Representative MacReynolds to the White House. Former Gov. James M. Cox was not present.

One delegate said the instructions from the President were succinctly phrased:

"Do your best."

A group of experts will accompany the delegation, but the $6 per day allowance has materially reduced the number of technicians who lack the private means and who are not taken care of in the State Department appropriation.

GRADUATION EVENTS BEGIN AT ANNAPOLIS

Several Thousand Attending Brilliant Ceremonies and Social Functions.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 29.—Ceremonies leading up to commencement day at the Naval Academy Thursday swung into full stride today when a varied and interesting program of official events during the day, climaxed by elaborate social functions at night.

The outstanding number of the program was the annual presentation of "colors" which took place at dress parade of the regiment at 5:30 o'clock, the ceremony being attended by several thousand persons. Threatening weather held off so that the ceremony was marked by all its splendor.

The color company winner is decided by a competition that extends throughout the academic year, and the honor was won by the fourth company, of which Midshipman Ernest Lee Jahncke, jr., of New Orleans, son of the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was company commander, and the presentation was made by Miss Virginia Thompson, of Baltimore, sister of Midshipman Raymond W Thompson, a high-ranking member of the regiment, and also a star man of the graduating class. And according to academy traditions, the girl selected by the company commander for this occasion is generally supposed to be his fiancee.

Colors Are Presented.

While the regiment was drawn up at attention, the winning company advanced to the front and drew up in line of a hollow square. Miss Thompson, on the arm of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Academy, advanced and presented the colors—national and regimental banners—to the winning leader, who in turn, turned them over to the color bearers. As this was done the regiment gave a lusty cheer, and the winning company responded.

Hundreds of additional commencement visitors arrived in the city today and were on hand for the opening ceremonies at 10 a. m., when two battalions of the regiment gave an interesting physical drill on Worden Field. At noon the presentation of athletic awards, chiefly varsity letters, took place in Thompson Stadium, Superintendent Hart making the presentations. At 4 o'clock the Academy Band entertained with a concert. Next in order was the dress parade and color presentation.

Important Social Events.

Tonight three of the most important social events of the year got under way simultaneously. The grounds about the residence of Superintendent and Mrs. Hart were aglow with light and colors for the garden party in honor of the graduates and their fair partners, while the members of the second class entertained their friends at the annual ring dance. This, too, was an exclusive function, for which elaborate decorations had been made, in spite of economy being the watchword in all functions. The third event also was a dance given by the third classmen for their friends.

Formal functions have been curtailed tomorrow because of the Memorial Day holiday, although a big social affair at night will be a dance by the "N Club," composed of midshipmen who have won their athletic letters. This will be held in Hubbard Hall, the boathouse building.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

THAT GOOD OLD GERMAN COOKING GETS HEARTY WELCOME FROM U. S.

By ANN BARRETT

IF there's a melting pot of nations, it's the cookpot. Long before the return of beer, food lovers of the U. S. gave the glad hand to those famous German sausages, to pot roasts beautifully browned and subtly sour, to feathery dumplings, to those dozens of delicious coffee cakes the Germans are past masters at making.

And now—! Well, there's Hope Williams, crunching pretzels and blowing off foam between acts in her Broadway show. There's Mrs. Vincent Astor gleefully absorbing hot dogs at the recent Metropolitan Opera pageant. There's Irvin Cobb reveling in pig's knuckles and sauerkraut. And Gertrude Berg, of the radio Goldberg skit, naming as food of all foods—good old potato pancakes served with apple sauce.

"What hippy dishes," you say? Oh, well, borrow your offspring's roller skates and take a spin through the park after eating. That'll be another way to prove to the world you know what's in fashion.

Sauerbraten.

With this introduction, I'll now launch into one of the most typical of all German dishes—Sauerbraten mit Kartoffel Klosse (sour roast with potato dumplings.) Is that name a mouthful! Well, the dish is, too. Choose a cool day for it—when you have a bounding appetite.

Here's how the dish goes: Start with a lean piece of beef (round is best) weighing 2 or 3 pounds. Put this in an earthen jar and cover it with a sauce made of mixing the following: 1 tablespoon sharp, prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 leaf of sage, ½ teaspoon thyme, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup tarragon or cider vinegar (or sour red wine), and 1 cup bouillon (made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in boiling water.)

Let the meat stand in this sauce in a cool place 3 days, turning it each day. On the fourth day, take it out of the sauce and brown it richly in 3 tablespoons butter melted in a heavy pan. Then pour over the sauce that the meat stood in, cover the kettle tightly, and simmer meat gently till tender. Then take out the meat and keep it hot while you make the gravy as follows: Melt 3 tablespoons butter, blend into it 4 tablespoons flour, stir it into the sauce left from cooking the meat, and cook till thick and smooth. Serve with the meat—sliced down about ¼ inch thick.

Kartoffel Klosse.

There are many ways to make the potato dumplings that go with this dish. But I think you'll find the results of the following recipe sehr gemuetlich—and how!

Start with 2 cups grated raw potato squeesed absolutely dry (this is very important) in a piece of cheesecloth. Mix this at once (so it won't darken) with 2 cups hot, cooked potato (mashed or riced). Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 egg slightly beaten. Mix and form into small balls ½ inch through. (Make 'em larger if you wish, but they'll take longer to cook.) Roll these in flour (about ½ cup in all). Then drop them into stock or boiling, salted water. Cook till done (about 12 minutes).

Rotkohl.

Rotkohl (red cabbage) is the right side dish to serve with sauerbraten. If you want to keep up the German atmosphere. Or white cabbage, if you can't get red.

Start with 3 pounds of cabbage shredded fine. Pour boiling water over it and let it stand a minute or two. Then drain, and put cabbage into kettle with following: 1 cup boiling water, 6 tablespoons melted fat, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups sliced apple, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1½ teaspoons ground or crushed caraway seeds. Simmer 1½ hours. Then add ¼ cup grated raw potato, cook 15 minutes and serve.

Pflaumen Kompott.

To finish this meal in German style, you might serve Pflaumen Kompott—which isn't nearly so complicated as it sounds. It's simply stewed prunes, seasoned with a flourish and served very cold. But really delicious.

First soak ½ pound prunes in a cup of water. Then put them to cook in the same water, add ½ cup cooking wine, rind of ½ lemon cut in thin shreds, 2 whole cloves and 1-3 cup sugar. Simmer gently till prunes are tender. Then add 10 or 12 pieces of angelica cut in fancy shapes. Chill thoroughly and serve.

Send for More Recipes.

Perhaps you'd prefer to end the meal with Nuss Pudding or Krusmel Torte. Or maybe you don't want sauerbraten at all, but a big platter of pig's knuckles and sauerkraut cooked German fashion. Or braised veal cutlets. Or fish loaf. Or potato pancakes with apple sauce. All these recipes and more, too, you'll find in our new bulletin "Famous German Dishes." Send me a self-addressed envelope, 6 cents in loose stamps with the coupon below, and all this cooking lore is yours. Gluck Auf!

The Meanderer

Finds at Last a Graceful Beer Glass—Cooling Ingredients for Summer Drinks.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Slender, graceful and pretty enough to form a respectable row among feminine treasures of glass and china, and still commodious to the extent of holding a man-size portion of beer, are some beer glasses the Meanderer spied in a china shop of indubitable taste. Two sizes of these tall glasses hold 10 and 12 ounces, respectively. They are in exaggerated cone shapes with footed bases, and are found only in crystal with simple cutting.

If a mug it must be for beer, then see some Stengl glass mugs in a cool green color, in more than usually good design, in a Connecticut avenue china and glass shop.

Tall bottles of fruit juices in much variety make worthy subjects for shoppers' consideration through the hot days we're passing through and will continue to pass through for a matter of months. Unsweetened lemon and lime squashes of English type are among the appealing fruit offerings in bottles in a grocery which seems to "have everything." Raspberry syrup which is so rich in content of juice that it may be diluted with five parts water, is another uncommon concoction. Cranberry cocktail is being substituted by clever hostesses for tomato juice in summer menus, and cranberry cocktail was in the fruit juice corner with the other discoveries just described. Devonshire cider, white grape juice, plain lime juice, loganberry juice, grape brandy and grape brandy with apricot flavor are other appealing names that beckon from the summer beverage shelf.

Rock candy syrup is a most satisfactory medium for sweetening summer drink mixtures; it neighbors all the fruit juice discoveries the Meanderer has listed.

Almost any of the fruit juices mentioned may be poured into the ice cube sections of electric refrigerators and frozen for use in iced tea or other summer beverages.

The Carl Gray mixture tea, one of the choicest teas on the market anywhere, is among the most popular choices selling in a store featuring a wide selection of teas. Ming Cha and Hu-Kwa teas are there, too, of course, in their bright Oriental boxes, which go into many discriminating homes. They are dark, smoky teas of choicest blossoms of the tea plant.

Angostura bitters, produced for years as a tonic with 40 per cent alcohol, is used in small dashes in concocting refreshing summer beverages. Look for Angostura bitters on the shelf with the fruit juices mentioned elsewhere in this column.

Tin boxes of variously shaped cocktail biscuits are bought for the refreshment shelves of many homes. Crisp, elongated, rolled cheese or anchovy flavored wafers also are included on the well-stocked refreshment shelf. A new thin, flat, square wafer, well-browned and salty, which is pretzel-flavored and used in the manner of the pretzel, is but 30 cents a pound in the shop selling nearly all the items listed above.

CIRCUS AERIALIST AND CLOWN

BIG RINGLING CIRCUS TO OPEN TOMORROW

International Stars Among Show's 1,600 Persons; 100 Clowns Included.

Clowning has its serious side as you can see in this scene outside the dressing rooms of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus, coming to Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast tomorrow and Thursday. Here we have Irving Nelson, who has ceased the noble business of making people laugh for the nonce so that he may assist pretty Vera Bruce, leaper in the famous Flying Codona act, in a bit of bodice lacing or hooking. Well, maybe it isn't a bodice, but—oh, well, never mind. Anyway, Irving has come to Vera's rescue, but if he hadn't, there are 99 more clowns with the big show who would jump to help.

Not long after this picture was made Vera married Alfredo Codona, star of stars of the aerial displays of the circus, so now the clowns may get their minds back on the business of making the folks laugh.

Alfredo is the only aerialist who does a triple somersault in midair to a hand-to-hand catch. You've seen him in motion pictures, too. He and Vera and Lalo, his brother, who is the act's catcher, did the flying in "Variety," "Polly of the Circus," "Tarzan" and "The Four Devils."

The Codonas played all the capitals of Europe last winter, including the Berlin Wintergarden, the locale of "Variety." It afforded Vera and Alfredo a dandy honeymoon. Now they're back among the stars of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which is home to them. You'll see them over the middle ring when the four long trains of 100 double-length steel cars come to town with the show's 1,600 persons, 50 elephants, 1,000 menagerie animals and 700 horses.

WAGE INCREASES MARK STEADY BUSINESS RISE

textile production, as reported by the New York Cotton Exchange Service, has been maintained for about six weeks at the normal level of the 1925-27 index base of 100.

Spurt Is Well Maintained.

The recovery spurt has been so well maintained beyond the normal seasonal limit of the spring upturn that many business forecasters are hinting perhaps a month's delay in the approach of the normal summer slack, while some reputable observers are suggesting that the prevailing rush to rehabilitate depleted inventories may carry the present spirited revival well into the late summer, there to meet to impetus of the normal fall demand.

"The pace of the recent business pick-up shows no signs of slackening," says Standard Statistic Co., in its weekly survey for May 29.

"In comparing the present rise with that of last July-September, the extent to which heavy lines of industry have participated in the movement makes a highly favorable showing. In the earlier recovery, the gains were almost wholly confined to the lighter lines which produce for quick consumption. Now, in contrast, the heavy industries are sharing actively in the upturn, with contraseasonal gains in a number of important lines. Meanwhile, average wholesale commodity prices have risen above the May, 1932, levels.

"Upon Substantial Grounds."

"Taking the business picture as a whole, much can be discovered to support the belief that the revival rests upon substantial grounds, though the real test may be deferred until the period of normal summer dullness, or of the ensuing autumn expansion."

Pointing to the firmness of the bond markets in recent weeks, the American Bankers Journal commented in its monthly survey yesterday that this single factor in the financial picture is highly encouraging evidence of rehabilitated public confidence.

"If the investing public were inclined to believe that serious use would be made of the inflationary powers conferred upon President Roosevelt, it would have fled from the money and from fixed income securities, and into property and equities with alarming speed," the journal says.

A similar note of general revival is reported by the National Association of Credit Men, whose monthly bulletin chronicles a "definite improvement in both wholesale sales and collections throughout the country."

Whereas the April survey showed collections to be "fair" in 23 per cent of the 104 reporting cities, the May compilation lists 31 per cent of the cities in the "fair" column.

The New York Wool Top Exchange reports that the 12½ per cent wage increase announced by the wool manufacturing industry last week has further stimulated forward buying.

"There has been an unusually rapid expansion of woolen and worsted mill operations which will undoubtedly be shown in wool consumption reports in the next few months," this authority says. "Most mills are operating at close to capacity. Some mills which have been closed for months are preparing to reopen. With wool top prices soaring, many mills are withholding quotations on fabrics. * * * Shortening of working hours under the industrial control bill, and higher wages, are expected to sustain the higher price levels."

About the same situation prevails in cotton textiles. Many spinners now are booking July and August deliveries, says the weekly survey of the New York Cotton Exchange Service, released yesterday.

"Business was of a bread character. Heavy cotton goods for mechanical purposes sold more freely than for many weeks, although the volume of these goods is still much below normal. Goods prices continued their upward movement. * * * Manufacturing margins on standard unfinished cotton goods have widened appreciably in recent weeks as a result of the active demand for goods, leaving the cotton manufacturers a wider margin for profit as against unremunerative margins a few months ago."

Cotton Movements Gain.

Total forwardings of American cotton to the mills of the world last week were 293,000 bales, against 209,000 in the corresponding week of 1932, the Cotton Exchange Service reports.

The general national character of the impulse to step up production schedules is indicated by the fact that both New England and the Pacific Coast report a general expansion of industrial pay rolls and employment.

Last week's survey of the Bank of America (California) shows that employment in the Western States at the end of April disclosed the first monthly increase since 1931, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year.

"Further improvement is confirmed by the bank's index of far Western business for April, which rose to 57.9, a 4-point increase over March." Employment in California, alone, showed an increase of 15.3 per cent in April, as compared with March.

Similar reports are at hand from the great industrial centers of the Middle West, including the Gary-Hammond steel district, the Akron rubber plants and the Detroit-Flint automobile region.

In contemplating these figues, however, it should not be forgotten that for business as a whole, as measured by the composite indices of production, power and carloadings, operations still are at approximately 60 per cent of the 1923-25 normal. This present index of 60 per cent is only 3 points above the corresponding period of 1932. Regarded in this light, much of the recovery of the last six weeks—with certain notable individual exceptions — represents merely the recovery of the ground lost in the February and March banking crisis.

Yet this is not the whole story, for many plants are now reporting the best business since 1929.

Industrial New England.

In industrial New England the upturn in the secondary manufacturing supply industries has been sustained for seven consecutive weeks, according to a report last Saturday by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

A sheet metal and textile coppersmith in Lowell, for example, reported business for the first half of May on a scale equal to his predepression normal. For the six weeks ended May 15 this firm reported new orders 274 per cent above the corresponding period of 1932. Since early March this one firm has doubled the number of men on its pay roll.

During the first week in May the textile-production pay roll of one of the largest cotton plants in the Fall River district was $198,000 against $162,000 for the same week of 1932.

A Brockton shoe manufacturer reported shipments aggregating 70,661 pairs between April 1 and May 11, compared with 43,369 pairs in the same period last year. This represents an increase of 63 per cent.

A rubber plant in Franklin, Mass., reported an increase of 200 per cent in new business booked for the first two weeks of May this year, as compared with May, 1932. For these two weeks the plant operated with a normal full force on a 6-day basis, which compares with 27 hours as the previous high week for 1933.

In April and the first two weeks of May a large leather goods manufacturer in Worcester received 4,582 orders, against 3,865 during the corresponding period of 1932.

A hat manufacturer in Amesbury received orders aggregating $329,990 in the six weeks ended May 13, against $136,090 for the same period week May 7-13, against $11,839 for the last year. This establishment reported a pay roll of $19,595 for the corresponding period of 1932.

Summer Slack Discounted.

After reporting an increase of 103 per cent in new booking for April, a machine steel fabricator in Attleboro, Mass., showed an increase of 214 per cent for the first two weeks in May.

Although the normal summer slack is anticipated in some business quarters, many of the statistical organizations point out that in view of long dammed replacement buying, the present rate of production well may be maintained until the impetus of the fall retail demand is again at hand. Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., point out in a May 27 survey that since mid-April virtually every jobber's budget of fall buying has been expanded, in some instances as much as 30 per cent.

Last week's steel operations index, as reported by Iron Age, was 38 per cent of capacity, the best since June, 1931. This means that this basic industry is approaching the profits line again, after more than two years of operating losses. Long experience has established 40 per cent operations as the minimum scale which will show a net profit for the industry as a whole.

Last week the Frigidaire Corporation, a General Motors subsidiary, added 1,500 men to its pay roll, bringing the factory force to the highest point since 1929. New beer cooling equipment accounts for a large part of the new refrigeration business.

Plymouth Motors reported a May production schedule of 32,000 cars, with the prospect that "several thousand" May delivery orders probably will be carried over to June.

A Cord subsidiary which specializes in free-wheeling parts reported current operations on a 24-hour schedule.

Outlook Declared Brightest.

A Detroit survey last week carried a statement from Henry Ford that the outlook for the automobile industry now is the brightest since the 1929 crash.

A hint of higher automobile prices in the fall was sounded in the announcement of the American Austin Corporation, one of the lightest sellers in the American market, that $15 would be added to the June 1 factory price. Simultaneously a wage increase of 15 per cent on the hourly base was announced.

Beginning June 1 two of the most important Du Pont production plants, the rayon and cellophane units, will adjust plant wages upward. The average increase will be about 5 per cent on the hourly base. Approximately 10,000 employes will be affected.

At Akron, Goodyear and Goodrich report 24-hour operations seven days a week. Goodyear is producing 47,000 tires daily with four six-hour shifts and Goodrich, 28,000 tires daily with three eight-hours shifts.

Selberling reported operations at capacity, with the prospect that the seven-day basis would be continued "for several weeks."

The National Steel Corporation, which carries ore from the head of the lakes to the Gary district placed four additional carriers in operation last week to meet increased smelting demand.

Also, indicative of improved conditions in the steel regions is the report from Hammond, Ind., that no less than 2,203 families were removed from the Lake County charity roles since mid-April.

Wages Up in St. Louis.

Building operations are still at about 20 per cent of normal, but new contracts in 37 States for the first two weeks in May showed an increase of 36 per cent over the first half of April.

In St. Louis, 6,000 workers in four of the largest breweries received a 5 per cent wage increase, which brings the present rate slightly above the prevailing union scale.

General Foods Corporation reported gross tonnage sales for the first three weeks of May exceeded the entire month of May, 1932.

CORPSES OF 2 TRAIN VICTIMS ARE FOUND

Army Records May Reveal Identities of Pair Killed in Fairfax County.

Two unidentified white men were killed by a Southern Railway train Sunday night near Ravensworth, Fairfax County, Va. The mangled bodies were discovered yesterday morning by the crew of a freight train.

Fairfax County and railway officials believe the men had either fallen asleep on the tracks or had fallen between cars. Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity and Dr. R. E. Feagan, acting coroner, took charge of the bodies.

One of the men appeared to be about 18 years old and the other about 25. On one of the bodies a notebook was discovered. In the front of which was the name, "Bob Williams, Grand Prairie, Tex." The man also had a billfold in which were three pictures, one of a middle-aged woman and the other two of young girls. Police state addresses in the books listed persons from coast to coast and from all Southern States. These included Marcus L. Luther, Bladensburg, Md.; Dr. Hamrick, 408 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., and the address 1418 Eighteenth street, Washington.

Army records will be checked today in an attempt at identification.

When discovered the body of one lay in the middle of the track and the other just beside it, indicating, railway officials state, that the men had been prostrate when struck.

The coroner gave a verdict of accidental death, after which the bodies were removed to the undertaking establishment of Hall & Davis, Occoquan, Va. On the body of the older man a belt buckle was found with the insignia of the Seventeenth Infantry. Communications with the adjutant general's office in Washington revealed that he may have served with that body in Texas.

Fingerprints of the older man were taken last night to be forwarded to the War Department. It is stated that all hope of identifying the younger man is gone. The only clew is that he had dark brown hair and a wart on one of his knees.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT would not be my thought to declare the British point of view more liberal, more tolerant or saner than the American, but there come to hand simultaneously two bits of writing that are so diametrically opposed that it seems worth while to reproduce them both and let the reader determine in his own mind with which one he is in sympathy.

Both are too lengthy to quote en toto. However, the introductory passages of each are sufficient to give a comprehensive notion of its entire content. The American brochure, then, is in part as follows:

"Motion pictures and their serious effects upon the children and youth of the country present a critical and complicated situation,' demanding the immediate attention of the American public. This, in substance, is the conclusion of a four-year research of Nation-wide proportions conducted by a group of scientific investigators, psychologists, sociologists, educators, all men of high standing in their fields, aided by hundreds of assistants and trained observers.

"The research, said to have cost approximately $200,000, was financed by the Payne Fund, an organization interested in the welfare of American youth, and conducted by departments of the universities of Ohio, Chicago, Iowa, New York and Yale. It has recently been brought to completion, and the reports of the investigators are about to be given to the public in a number of volumes. The first of the publications, to be released May 31, by the Macmillan Co., is a popular summary volume by Henry James Forman, 'Our Movie-Made Children,' presenting the high spots of the research results in nonscientific form, intended for the general reader.

"While making it quite clear that some excellent movies have been produced, as 'The Covered Wagon,' 'Ben Hur,' 'Abraham Lincoln,' and so on, the summary volume shows, by citing the results of the investigation, illustrated by numerous cases of fright, shock, delinquency and crime, that the haphazard, unsupervised output of the commercial screen has produced much that is not only questionable but positively deleterious to the health, conduct, social attitudes and morals of the children and young people of America.

"Both motion-picture producers and the American public are urgently called upon to revise the entire system of production for the sake of American childhood and youth; to raise its standards, ideals, its entire make-up."

So much for the American view, as assembled and expressed by a group of some distinction and obvious standing in the world of learning, if not amusement.

In the May 17 issue of the London Era, an amusement weekly which takes somewhat the same place in the British capital as Sime Silverman's Variety occupies in New York—the most recent issue to reach this country, by the way—appears the following, rather at odds with the foregoing. It is, of course, merely the voice of a member of the cloth and not of a group of heavily subsidized educators, and is as follows:

"Bishop Frodsham, speaking at Halifax Parish Church on Sunday, on behalf of the Actors' Church Union, declared that whatever view may be taken of the tendency of modern plays and the effect they have upon those who see them either on the boards of a theater or through the medium of moving pictures, no one can deny that the theatrical profession provides the bulk of our social recreation.

"With all their faults, theaters and picture-houses are no longer regarded as the antechambers of hell," said Bishop Frodsham. "The old Puritan fanaticism of the seventeenth century took an unconscionable time in dying, but it has now disappeared into the limbo of the past. Millions every week in England alone avail themselves of this form of recreation, and in the main the recreation is wholesome and desirable. It is, however, doubtful if the general public give much thought to the actors—their ideals and welfare—unless it may be to a certain number who are prominent in their profession.

"The great bulk of the theatrical profession, especially those who tour in the provinces, are very young. Their work is hard, and they have a constant difficulty in making ends meet. They are usually in love with their profession, and may have high ideals about it. Their artistic temperament renders them sensitive and they are peculiarly amenable to advice and sympathy, not invariably wise nor good.

"I have met many hundreds of young actors since I have been a chaplain to the Actors Church Union, and without hesitation I can say that the vast majority are thoroughly nice-minded young men and women. Some may not have been all that they should be, but I know of no profession in which all the members are perfect."

There you have the two viewpoints, as opposite as the poles, both purporting to be constructive and for the common good. As the final judge whose verdict is recorded at the box-office by the purchase of tickets, what do you say and which side are you on, Mr. John Jeremiah Jehoshaphat Public?

When comment was made here yesterday upon the defection of Mr. Ian Keith from the cast of "Best Sellers," the Edouard Bourdet comedy still on Broadway, it might have been added that Mr. Keith has attached himself to the company which will travel to Chicago to regale the "Century of Progress" exposition crowds in support of Lenore Ulric in a play whose title has been abridged from "The Hard-Boiled Angel" to the less specific and more tempting name of "Angel."

Incidentally, speaking of Mr. Keith, imagine my astonishment upon reading in yistiddy's colyum that "He is an actor of serious mein and purpose."

What I think I said was "serious mien," meaning (or miening, if you must!) "external appearance, air, aspect, look, carriage," and not a mess of fried noodles, as in chow!

Or maybe somebody merely found it difficult to forget the old battlecry of the Spanish-American War, "Remember the mein!"

G. W. H. takes the trouble to drop this department a postcard, reading in these words: "Published intimations that 'Sis Hopkins' has not been shown in Washington since 1911 are incorrect. I saw 'Sis Hopkins' at Poli's Theater on February 14, 1917."

This column does not pretend to remember when the play being revived by the National Theater Players this week was last presented on a Washington stage. It only recalls that Rose Melville was a regular visitor to the old Academy Theater—now the darkened Strand—year after year in this famous role and does not remember her ever having played the piece in any other theater in the Capital.

The allusions to 1911 have been predicated upon a presumably accurate examination of the newspaper files of the Congressional Library, instituted by Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, impresario of the National Players, which was reported to have indicated that year as the last in which "Sis" was played locally.

And sleeping as late as you do on holidays, you should have put the flag out last night!

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"TRICK FOR TRICK." Fox picturization of a play by Vivian Crosby. Shirley Warde and Harry Wagstaff Gribble, featuring Ralph Morgan, Victor Jory and Sally Blane. Directed by Hamilton MacFadden. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Here is a picture that from all appearances should have everything that the amusement seeker—be he one to fall for mystery dramas—could hope for. It has a mystery story of the first water, it has necromancy, it has magic (black and white), it has a mad scientist-doctor whose pet phobia is cats, it has a pleasing array of subplots, it has comedy aplenty, and a more than adequate cast.

With all these attributes, "Trick for Trick," nevertheless, falls short of its goal for the reason that too strenuous an effort was made to create an "eerie" picture.

It seems that some time before the picture begins one Evelin Maxwell, former assistant to the Great LaTour, magician extraordinary, was murdered and her death had remained "the perfect crime." But Azrah, former associate of LaTour and no less a practitioner of that art, suspicions the real murderer, and to prove his point he, with the ingenuity involved in such cases, conducts a midnight seance, with the ultimate solution not only of the Maxwell murder but that of LaTour as well.

The magicians who counter, trick for trick, are played by Ralph Morgan, as Azrah, and Victor Jory, as LaTour. Furnishing the lighter motif are Sally Blane and Clifford Jones, the latter a newcomer to cinemaland and one of whom, it seems certain, we shall see more later. Comedy in the hands principally of Tom Dugan, and the noneventuating threat of the mad scientist is engendered by Luis Alberni.

In "Knight Duty" Harry Langdon reverts to a former successful theme, being inadvertently locked in a wax museum. And if there is any one who can outdo Mr. Langdon in being unmitigatedly dumb, he has not as yet stumbled in front of a camera. The other divertissements are a "Flip, the Frog" cartoon, "Bulloney," a Spanish travesty, and the Paramount News.

TRIAL OF COBLENTZ OPENS IN FREDERICK

Ten Witnesses Take Stand as Head of Closed Bank Faces Three Writs.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 29.—Emory L. Coblentz, president of the closed Central Trust Co., embracing eleven branch banks, all in the hands of a receiver, went on trial today in the circuit court here before Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Judge Arthur D. Willard, charged in three separate indictments with receiving deposits when he knew the bank was insolvent. Similar indictments are pending in Carroll, Howard and Montgomery counties.

Ten witnesses, including John G. Ghingher, State bank examiner; William D. French, treasurer of four subsidiary organizations of the trust company, and two deputy bank examiners testified. Zebulon M. Huyitt, vice president of the Cumberland Steel Co., testified that in January, 1931, he made a demand for a balance of $100,000 on deposit in the trust company but was refused. He finally entered into an agreement with Mr. Coblentz to withdraw smaller amounts.

After drawing about $26,000 the bank failed and went into the hands of a receiver.

Mr. French testified that the Central Securities Co., a subsidiary of the trust company, owed the trust company $2,623,429; the Blue Ridge Investment Co., another subsidiary, owed the Central Co. $2,416,000; the Guarantors Investment Co., still another subsidiary, owed the trust company $1,257,000, and the Blue Ridge Heights Co., another subsidiary, owed the trust company $20,000, a total of $6,316,000. He also testified that the books of the Central Securities Co. showed assets of $4,013,976, against an estimated appraisal value of $425,000; book value of assets of Blue Ridge Investment Co., $4,083,373, estimated appraisal value, $1,350,256; book value of Blue Ridge Securities Co. in excess of $1,000,000, estimated value, $72,000, and book value of assets of Blue Ridge Heights Co., $63,376, estimated appraisal value, $9,284. Mr. French said he based his appraisal values on the income of investments on buildings in Washington, D. C., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Coblentz was found guilty of a similar charge at a trial in Cumberland several months ago and sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction. The court of appeals reversed the judgment of the lower court on the ground of a faulty indictment. The trial here is the second of a series of indictments by grand juries in four counties. Half a dozen more witnesses have been summoned for the prosecution. The trial will last about one week. Court adjourned until Wednesday.

Insurance Chief Chicago Speaker

Herbert L. Davis, superintendent of insurance of the District of Columbia, has just left for Chicago, where he will deliver an address before the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners, relative to investments of insurance companies. He will also participate in discussion on this and analogous subjects.

Although Mr. Davis has been a member of the convention for only two years, he has already obtained substantial recognition, as he has been named to several of the most important committees. This speedy recognition is largely to be accounted for by the fact that Mr. Davis for years has been a recognized authority in the field. He is author of a widely known legal treatise and is professor of law at National University.

Recently Mr. Davis has been giving much time and attention to the Harlan securities bill, now before Congress, which would interdict the issuance and sale of fraudulent securities in the District of Columbia. This would be accomplished by setting up within the District government a division to coordinate the necessary local regulation with the activities of the Federal Trade Commission. Most progressive States already have a State securities commission or similar organization charged with the duty of intrastate administration of security laws.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

"THERE are many interesting exhibits in the United State National Museum, but there are a few treasures that visitors do not see," Matilde M. Carpenter, Division of Insects, National Museum, tells us.

"It has been my privilege and good fortune to be employed in the Division of Insects Library, where there are a few rare, old books that I prize as if they were my own and of which I am exceedingly proud.

"The oldest one, a first edition by Ulysses Aldrovandus, is printed in Latin in folio with 767 pages. It is dated 1602 and bears on the ornately engraved title page the following: 'De animalibus insectes libri septem, cum singulorum iconibus ac vivum expressis. Auctore Ulysses Aldrovando, in almo Gymnasio Bonon; rerum natularium professore ordinario ad Serenis: Franc Mariam Secundum Urbini Ducem Sextum.' It is in a fine state of preservation, bound in three-quarter embossed pigskin, with many fine woodcuts. The type is printed from carved wood blocks and is perfectly legible even today.

"Another one, bound in vellum, in quarto, is dated 1691 and published in Rome. The plates are etched and some of them occupy the space of two pages, making the insect pictured many times its natural size. This volume is a gift of one of the scientists, dead these many years.

"Still another work has the plates engraved and the insects equisitely painted in water colors. Although this work dates back to around 1800, one never ceases marveling at the beautiful colors which seem to have never lost their original glory.

"These books are on the shelves for use every day, and in view of this fact, are in remarkable condition. However, I believe that any one aware of their extreme age and value, would take the utmost care in handling them as I do; for to me they are like some rare treasure whose thrill is in its pricelessness."

Tribulation versus Jubilation.

THERE are tears and lamentation, much ado and perturbation in the Veterans' Administration about the latest regulation regarding furlough and vacation. There is also consternation, agitation and vexation, enent the scheme of elimination in balancing one's qualification, 'twix' indolence or application; efficiency or aberration; meekness or insurbordination; temperance or inebriation; promptness or procrastination; constancy or vascillation.

The judge experiences desperation in making a final determination between martial and pacification, the marital status or isolation. But the choice causing complication is the old maid's refrigeration 'gainst the "hot mama's" radiation. The foregoing tintinabulation replete with rhythmic syncopation induces deep ratiocination and profound preponderation, that if one survives mutation, occultation or obliteration it is Kismet or predestination, which is very poor consolation.

IN MEMORIAM.

AN old man benda uncovered head above a verdant mound, in company with the martyred dead he stands on sacred ground. One stalk missed by Death's grim scythe as o'er the ranks it passed, reaping heroes as they fought in mortal combat massed.

His comrade of war-torn years, secure from earthly pain, shall never hear the trumpet's blare "To arms! To arms!" again. The old man stoops to place a floral tribute by the cross, and whispers, "Buddy, Heaven's gain has been this Nation's loss."

Aye, many years these dead have slept beneath the hallowed sod, while greener grow the grassy graves before the sight of God. Yes, honor, but disturb not these hero dead that sleep. Let all the world with this old man a reverent vigil keep!—Walter A. Thorne, Agriculture, Experimental Farm, Beltsville, Md.

CHAUNCEY O. HOWARD is retiring from active duty in the Pension Service, formerly the Bureau of Pensions, Wednesday, after nearly 32 years of service therein.

He was appointed in the bureau from New Jersey, June 10, 1901, as a special pension examiner, and since August of 1921 he has been in charge of the library. He is thoroughly versed in this work and has always been deeply and actively interested in all matters pertaining to the Pension Service.

In his position as librarian, he has been called upon to render expert reference and research service to officials and others in the administration, and to compile historical and statistical data relating to pension and military activities. By reason of his long training, experience and specialized knowledge, he was peculiarly well equipped for the duties required of him.

In addition to his official duties, Mr. Howard has been connected with the welfare work of the Veterans' Administration, serving as the representative of the Pension Service for the last two years.

Mr. Howard was born May 3, 1863, in Maine.

His father, Gen. O. O. Howard, rendered distinguished service in the Civil War and is also well remembered for his fine work during the reconstruction period. Howard University is named for him.

The following is the result of the play-off of the five persons who were tied as a result of the Federal Diary golf tournament, at Indian Springs, Thursday, said J. Leland Acuff, general chairman:

H. H. Ritner, gross score, 90; handicap, 23; net, 67.

G. W. Ingling, gross score, 86; handicap, 18; net, 68.

J. R. Emeigh, gross score, 83; handicap, 12; net, 71.

Diary Guest Tickets

IF your name in this column is followed by (*), or if your contribution appears, call on The Federal Diary Editor day of publication, except Sunday, between 4:30 and 5:15 p. m., and receive tickets to Loew's Fox, "The Devil's Brother" (Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy), or Loew's Palace, "Adorable" (Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat).

M. C. Taylor (*), gross score, 101; handicap, 19; net, 82.

"Since the same rules applied to the 18-hole medal play in the play-off Monday that were in effect during the main tournament on Thursday, Messrs. Ritter, Ingling and Emeigh are again tied at a par, 71, as, under the rules, no player's handicap can be applied to bring his official tournament score below par," said Mr. Acuff.

"It is apparent that, on the basis of the scores turned in on the two 18-hole round matches, the handicaps of these three persons who are now tied must be adjusted on the basis of their scores.

"They will, therefore, be expected to play another 18-hole medal match on Wednesday, May 31, beginning at 7 a. m., with the following handicaps: H. H. Ritter, 17; G. W. Ingling, 14; J. R. Emeigh, 11.

"We regret this delay in announcing the final outcome of the tournament and the awarding of prizes, but feel that you know that when good golfers get together on a course like Indian Spring the unusual may happen, and that seems to have transpired Monday in the play-off. We beg your indulgence until Thursday for final announcement."

D. C. JUDGES' SALARY CONTENTION UPHELD

Highest Court Says Congress Can Not Include Them in Pay Cut.

Judges of the District Supreme Court and the District Court of Appeals are "constitutional judges," and, as such, need not accept the Government pay cut voted by Congress for the rest of the Federal judiciary, the United States Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The decision resulted from an appeal taken over the ruling of Comptroller General J. R. McCarl that the District Supreme Court and the District Court of Appeals were not in the strict sense courts created by the Constitution, and, as such, their judges must take the same cut as other Federal personnel.

Three Justices Dissent.

Congress does not now have the authority to reduce the compensation of a judgeship created by the Constitution, but Representative Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, has proposed a constitutional amendment which would permit a cut in their salaries.

Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Van Devanter and Cardozo dissented from the decision handed down yesterday. Chief Justice Hughes argued that Congress had the power to change both the tenure of office and the salaries of judges of the courts involved.

Voluntary Cut Invited.

The appeals were certified to the Supreme Court without a hearing in the Court of Claims. Judges of the two local courts, while declaring their willingness to reduce their own salaries during the depression, said they filed suit to determine the legal status of their courts, insisting they were constitutional and not legislative tribunals.

The economy act imposing the Federal pay cut reduced the pay of all but constitutional judges, and inserted a clause inviting the latter to "voluntarily" cut their own pay. Representative Woodrum recently charged that only two had done so.

VETERANS CREATE NEW JOB PROBLEM

terday, when incoming groups applied at the Veterans' Administration, they were told the quota was filled and that no more would be taken.

Learning that the men were massing at Seaton Park last night, Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, immediately communicated with Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs.

"Tell them to go home," was Gen. Hines' message relayed to the veterans by police. "Tell them that the reforestation quota has been filled and that we can care for no more."

Congress Aid Promised.

When told that the men claimed to have been sent here by Veterans' Administration regional offices, Gen. Hines told police that he knew of no such order. He pointed out that on the contrary all former service men had been urged not to come here.

Several spokesmen of the group in Seaton Park last night declared that various representatives in Congress had urged the men to remain at least until tomorrow. They said that Representative Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, had promised her support in aiding to reopen registration in the forestry ranks.

Action will be taken tomorrow, it was indicated, to reopen forest camp registration for those veterans now here.

The men, traveling by freight train and highway, hurried here from all sections of the country when told they could join the forest movement. They said that although naturally interested in payment of the bonus, this was purely a campaign to obtain work.

Meeting Today Urged.

Representative Jenckes was instrumental in finding shelter for the men last night. A committee of the veterans, who communicated with her secretary, said she obtained quarters for a group of 40 at 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast. Police, shortly before midnight, found room for another group of 33 at the Veterans Shelter, 2626 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Those men who failed to stay with their "buddies" last night, and who went to various relief organizations for shelter, were urged to meet at Seaton Park today. City missions reported capacity crowds.

Members of Congress, contacted by veterans from their home districts, promised that tomorrow something would be done to aid them, members of the group declared.

Publicity accorded the "Veteran Convention" at Fort Hunt led former service men throughout the States to believe that by coming here they would be given work. This belief was upheld, they said, when regional officers of the Veterans Bureau said "the place to enroll for the President's forest plan is in Washington."

By NELSON B. BELL.

They applauded the heroine, cheered the hero, laughed at the avaricious village undertaker and hissed the villain in the true style of the good old days of the ten-twent-thirt at the National last night, when this hardy old perennial of Rose Melville's was revived as a vehicle for the versatile talents of the National Theater Players.

For many, no doubt, it was a first glimpse of "Sis Hopkins" and a school of drama that is unknown to the present generation; to others it was a heart-warming bit of reminiscence, recalling that prolific Al Woods-Theodore Kremer-Owen Davis era of simple virtues and blackest villainy, when drama got down to cases and dealt in the fundamental emotions that lie near the surface susceptibilities of the masses.

It has been a long time since the city slicker, with his bowler hat, polished riding boots and horn-handled riding crop, has come down into the tranquil precincts of a peaceful pastoral community to swindle the rich bottom lands, heavy with oil, away from the untutored agriculturist with the gawky pig-tailed daughter, on the pretext of acquiring a right-of-way for the railroad, only to have his dastardly schemes thwarted by the stalwart rustic who has taken up the law and proved the signature on the important papers a forgery.

It has been a long time, but not long enough to dull the appeal of these simple tricks of dramaturgy or lessen a public's delight in the triumph of justice and the conquest of true love.

All this was demonstrated last evening when a large and enthusiastic audience greeted the reappearance of this hoary old play with every mark of amusement, affection and acclaim. By modern standards "Sis Hopkins" seems a crude piece of playwriting, but it is builded on solid ground and is as eternal as the verities with which it deals.

The National Theater Players present the ancient piece with skill, humor and gusto—and, now and again, with a genuine tug at the gentler emotions. There is tenderness, pathos and a final touch of soaring spirit in that last act, when Pa Hopkins, his mind gone from a blow on the head, recognizes his daughter through a thin veil of old associations and familiar melodies.

Leona Powers' performance of the title role will be a revelation even to those who have been most aware of the remarkable range of her mimetic gifts. She plays the part with a richness of embellishment that ventures beyond mere grotesque comedy into the realms of music and the dance. There is a whimsicality, an ingenuousness, a naivete in her portrayal that is wholly disarming and utterly charming.

In the supporting ensemble, Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard and Burke Clarke, as Ma and Pa Hopkins, have the most fruitful opportunities they have encountered since the opening of the Players' current season, and Freddie Sherman—also called upon for a little something in the way of song-and-dance, in the role of the mercurial mortician—scores himself a hit as a macabre comedian. Romaine Callander and Donald Woods, as villian and hero, share the divergent honors of heavily overwritten characters and Forrest Orr and Kathryn Givney are adroit in supplying secondary love and comedy interest.

Maude Howell Smith reappears with the Players in the role of Miss Parthenia Peckover, principal of the seminary in which the second act is laid, and Romaine Stevens and Charlotte Mayo, recruits from Mr. Brooke's Academy, acquit themselves with ample credit in juvenile roles of no small importance. Miss Stevens benefitting perhaps by the slightly more conspicuous nature of her assignment.

Seven-eighths of a double male quartet do some very elegant harmonizing in "On the Banks of the Wabash" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" to make the resurrection of the past complete to the last barbershop chord.

You'll love the whole merry business.

Capital Youth Is Elected To G. U. Debater Office

Jerome J. Downey, of 3527 Tenth street northwest, was recently elected vice president of the Philopemic Debating Society of Georgetown University, it was announced yesterday.

Other officers of the society, undefeated in intercollegiate debate for the last 22 years, are Phillip Hart, of Philadelphia, president; Richard Clark, of New York City, treasurer, and Charles E. Hutchinson, of New Jersey, and Frank Hickey, of Chicago, secretaries.

Reid Still Silent On Primary Plans

With only four days remaining in which persons may file as candidates to enter the Democratic primary August 1, for the House of Delegates, Hugh Reid, incumbent, is still silent about entering the race.

Reid, failing to give any indication as to whether he will be a candidate for reelection, leaves William D. Medley unopposed for the Democratic nomination. John Locke Green has announced as an independent candidate for the office. Whether the Republicans will enter a candidate could not be learned last night.

In addition to voting for a candidate for the House of Delegates there will be selected in the primary 22 candidates as members on the county Democratic committee. In years past the committee has been composed of but 1 person from each of the 11 precincts. At a recent meeting of the committee it was voted to increase the membership to two persons from each precinct and indications are that there will be a woman in the race from each precinct.

Motorcycle Rider Hurt As Machine Hits Tree

Samuel Butler, Del Ray, Va., suffered a possible fracture of his right knee and severe bruises to his body late yesterday when the motorcycle of Kenneth Spiller, Mount Ida, Va., skidded on the wet pavement of Mount Vernon highway near Arlington Ridge and crashed into a tree. He was treated at Alexandria Hospital.

Butler was riding in the side seat. Spiller escaped injury.

GLEN ECHO PARK

Glen Echo Park was easily the prime favorite amusement resort over the week-end. The opening of the Crystal Pool was the signal for a new attendance record at the resort, and everybody had a grand time from Saturday noon until Sunday night.

Diving, splashing and swimming in the pool and cavorting on the beach, however, was only one of the diversions enjoyed. Even the kids held no monopoly on the fun found at the midway, the airplane swings, the dodgem rides, the coaster dips, the carrousel and the hundred and one other ways of spending a delightful holiday.

Of course the crowds were on hand at the new Spanish garden ballroom, where MacWilliams and his band made merry from 8:30 until 11:30 Saturday evening.

Sunday was the red letter day for the picnic parties, and how they did swarm to the beautiful grounds!

While the House took a Memorial Day intermission, Senate Democratic Leader Robinson was forced to call Senators back in session today to consider the appropriations measure and catch up with its program. He will press for early passage.

Other issues of interest to Federal employes involved in the measure include the Senate committee's proposal of optional retirement of 30-year Federal employes, and a combination State apportionment and efficiency basis for making dismissals.

Wrestling Bouts To Aid Boys' Club

An appeal for attendance at the wrestling bouts at the Griffith Stadium Thursday night was made yesterday by George O. Gilligham, associate editor of the Georgetown News, in an address broadcast over WMAL.

Part of the proceeds of the bouts will be turned over to the Georgetown Boys' Club. Mr. Gillingham stated that through the activities of the club many children have been taken off the streets, where they might have developed into boy gangsters, and given useful training and occupation.

Mr. Gillingham stated that Georgetown merchants appreciated the potential good of a boys' club and had donated practically all of the sport equipment used by the boys. He described other benefits offered by the club.

Giant Clover Plant Here Mystifying to Scientists

The traditional luck attending the discovery of a four-leaf clover may extend to the giant clover with seven leaflets just reported by C. V. Morton, botanist of the Smithsonian Institution. Described as "one of the most remarkable plants found in the United States in recent years," Smithsonian botanists are mystified by the fact that such a large and conspicuous species has escaped attention for so long.

It was found growing on sagebrush slopes in the State of Washington by J. W. Thompson, of Seattle, a collector, who sent the plants to this city for identification.

The leaf stem of the plant, measuring more than 8 inches, bears seven leaves, each about a quarter of an inch wide and nearly 3 inches long. The new species, according to botanists, may be one of the last conspicuous new plants to be discovered in the United States, because nearly every part of the country has been "botanized" either by experts or competent amateurs. New varieties come to light from time to time, but their differentiating characters are usually obscure and can be detected only by experts. The giant clover, it is explained, may grow only in a very limited range, but not hitherto thoroughly explored by botanists.

The blossom alone, judging from its size, would make the plant quite conspicuous to the amateur. The color was not ascertained. The specimen described by Mr. Morton, added to the plant collection in the United States National Herbarium, becomes the type specimen of this unusual new species. Careful search of botanical literature and consultation with clover specialists have failed to reveal anything like it hitherto known in the world.

Gandhi Ends 3-Week Fast Affirming Increased Faith

Poona, India, May 29 (A.P.).—Amid the rejoicing of his friends of various religions and castes, the Mahatma Gandhi today concluded his three-week fast in protest against "untouchability," extremely weak in body, but proclaiming his increased faith in God.

"In God's name I began this fast and in God's name I end it," the frail and shrunken little man announced to his followers and newspapermen who surrounded his couch.

At 12:40 p. m. he concluded his voluntary abstinence from food by drinking a glass of orange juice. His fast began at noon on May 8.

"My faith is not less but more on this occasion and I sing the glory of God," Gandhi said as he lay on his bed with wet cloths cooling his forehead.

"I can not forget the doctors and my other friends who poured attention on me during the days of my privilege and my grace. I can not but refer to them in these words because their kind service was part of God's mercy.

"I am glad the untouchables are here with us," the feeble leader said as he noted the presence of members of the lowest caste. "I do not know what God expects from me now, but whatever it may be I know He will give me strength for it."

The three-week fast left its marks on Gandhi. Sunken eyes, emaciated cheeks and arms even thinner than before testified to the ordeal through which he had passed.

WHAT PRICE UNCERTAINTY?

It should not be necessary to remind the heads of executive departments, legislators and international conferees that business can adjust itself to any condition better than variableness of values and regulations. There are so many evidences throughout the nation that commerce, industry and agriculture are ready and anxious to get busy that it will be most unfortunate if delays or changed decisions should add another factor of uncertainty.

Nearly every element entering into business calculations is today in a state of flux. It is cheering to hear that the primary objectives of the London conference will be to arrive at understandings with regard to monetary ratios and the stability of exchange rates. So long as these factors remain variable it is difficult for even the retailer, ordering finished products from week to week, to make positive calculations. For the manufacturer who must buy raw materials and await weeks or months of processing before he can market his wares, price certainty is impossible except on a basis of exaggerated margins at the expense of the purchaser.

Every factory in the land also faces the unsettled state of tariffs, regulations with regard to hours of labor and wages, and the possibility that inflation may upset estimates which have taken all other uncertainties into consideration. No doubt the administration is fully cognizant of these natural consequences of the comprehensive program it has in hand, involving as it does so many radical changes, or potentiality for change. The nation realizes the President's ardent desire to assist in restoring normal business activity in all the proposals he has offered and in the numerous measures that have already become law or are under way. This is manifest in the unprecedented support that is accorded him. The great prestige of the administration may well be exerted now to urge upon all collaborating agencies of the Government the imperative necessity of closing up, not only legislation, but all plans for inaugurating innovations that prolong variable conditions.

It should be impressed upon every official or administrator who is charged with carrying out any portion of the relief and regulatory measures that business can accommodate itself to any and all conditions better than uncertainty.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

Residents of Washington are vitally interested in the program of highway development proposed for Maryland. The most important connecting links between the National Capital and the country's principal industrial centers run through Maryland. Improvement of these arteries of travel is urgently needed.

Gov. Ritchie has been presented with a plan for a system of super-highways between Washington and the Maryland-Delaware line and between Baltimore and the proposed George Washington-Wakefield memorial bridge across the lower Potomac. The plan also includes a bridge across Chesapeake Bay near Baltimore and improvement of the Baltimore-Annapolis boulevard.

Extensive improvements in the highway between Washington and Baltimore have been made in recent years, but there is much yet to be accomplished. The present plan contemplates an entirely new highway from the Maryland-District line leading to a by-pass east of Baltimore across the Patapsco River. The river crossing would be made by bridge or tunnel at an expense of more than $8,000,000. One appealing feature of this plan is that it would afford a direct by-pass around Baltimore and thus greatly facilitate through traffic between Washington and New York.

Maryland's greatest highway need at present seems to be a better road between Baltimore and Havre de Grace, which is the route to Philadelphia and New York. As a principal thoroughfare between several of the country's foremost cities, this highway is a disgrace to the State. It is narrow, winding and rough. Yet it is heavily traveled by huge buses and trucks in addition to thousands of passenger cars. Accidents are appallingly frequent. Replacement of this road with a 150-foot super-highway built on modern engineering principles would be a remarkable contribution to safe and rapid travel between great centers of population.

Virginia is improving the road between Washington and Richmond. Dangerous curves are being eliminated. The new highway will be wide enough to accommodate three lanes of traffic without crowding. These improvements are urgently needed. If the States are to embark upon a program of extensive public works with money borrowed from the Federal Government they will find few more important projects than highway improvements between large centers of population, where motor traffic is heavy.

MARYLAND'S LOBBYIST.

A new type of lobbyist is making an appearance at Washington. Some of the States are apprehensive lest they should be deprived of a fair share of the bounty which the Government proposes to distribute. Hence, they consider it wise to send a "representative" here to give whatever help he can in bringing about a favorable slicing of the Federal melon.

It is rather strange to find Maryland in the vanguard of this movement. Gov. Ritchie has long been the most staunch advocate of States' rights and local responsibility. Events of the last few months must have seriously disillusioned him, for the governor has now turned in the opposite direction and is conducting a vigorous drive for Federal money. Apparently he has concluded that since the States must submit to paternalism, Maryland should be foremost in claiming the benefits of that policy. At any rate, Maryland under his direction is making a strong bid for Government aid.

Gov. Ritchie has appointed Frederic P. Lee, a legislative expert, to work for the interests of Maryland in connection with the distribution of relief funds, public works funds, &c. "The Federal relief program is on so vast a scale and involves so many different pieces of legislation, which will necessitate departmental construction," says Gov. Ritchie, "that it seems to me Maryland is fully justified in employing a competent representative in Washington to keep in constant touch with the entire relief program and with the departments which will be charged with the responsibility of carrying it out and allotting the Federal funds."

Maryland is not willing to leave these matters in the hands of her senators and representatives. A full-time lobbyist is considered necessary to protect her interests. The fact that Maryland is sending such a representative to Washington will make it necessary for other States to do likewise. It may be assumed that every State is as anxious as Maryland to participate in the Federal handouts. Washington will thus be infested with a new type of official lobbyist.

When the Federal bounties for the States run low these lobbyists will acquire another function—that of demanding replenishment. Having broken down self-reliance in the States, Congress will find it difficult indeed to reject the united demands of State lobbyists and congressional delegations. The Federal handout system seems to have been definitely established. It may cost Uncle Sam billions of dollars before local responsibility can once more be restored.

LIFE ON MARS.

Recent scientific discoveries have revived a number of nineteenth century theories which a few years ago were generally considered out-moded if not actually disproved. The Newtonian outlook which dominated the world for two hundred years is giving way to newer theories which bring with them a revival of some of the discarded views of yesterday. The belief that life exists on Mars had little acceptance among scientific thinkers of the past few decades, but today it is brought again to the fore by the interesting studies of H. Boyd Brydon of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada.

As a result of the work of such physicists as Dr. Coblentz the nature of the Martian atmosphere is to some extent known. Both oxygen and water vapor have been discovered—two elements necessary to the maintenance of life. The surface temperature has been measured and found to be comparable with that of the earth.

It has been observed that during the Martian winter the poles are covered with a white deposit which melts away as summer approaches. This deposit is assumed to be hoarfrost and snow. When the snow melts the vast areas it covered turn to brownish red, and later the color becomes green. Dr. Coblentz, therefore, regards this phenomenon as indicating clearly that vegetation thrives, dies and is reborn again during the Martian year.

No direct evidence of human life has been found, but Brydon brings forward again the views of Lowell, who believed the "canals" on the planet to be a regular irrigation system. He plotted them by the score and found they were always the shortest distances between two points. They seemed to meet with deliberate intention in what he called "oases." But whether they were dug by intelligent beings for a watering system, science has as yet found no means of determining.

STAND-UP DRINKS.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board of New York, which lifted Police Commissioner Mulrooney from his metropolitan job to put him at the head of State beer regulation, has had a hard time deciding whether to permit perpendicular drinking; or in other words, whether bars should be allowed. The first regulations required a thirsty customer to seat himself at a table and be served with bottle or stein in a restaurant, club or beer garden. This entailed formality and probable expense that brought many protests from those who would quaff a foaming beaker betimes and be gone, or repeat, as the case might be, but without the necessity of considering table manners, or pondering the size of a service tip.

New York has at last decided that there may be bars, with reservations. It concedes bars in principle, but there must be no other appurtenances of ye olde time saloon. No swinging doors, no screens, no obstructions to a view from the street. Nor is it to be a barren bar alone. Serving platforms for the upright drinker may be breast high, or an ordinary counter, but it must only appear as a side issue, not as an entity deserving of separate being. The minimum excuse for its raison d'etre is restaurant seats for twenty guests, who ostensibly desire victuals as well as drinks.

Loud outcry is being made by small stands that have no seating capacity, which want to dispense beer. The State is warned in a sensitive spot that large revenues will be lost if the roadside caterer of the ardent canine is not also permitted to assuage the parched throats of passing motorists. The little tea rooms also find that many patrons do not relish the idea of tea being compulsory and non-alternative. They also are keen to swell the tax coffers of the Empire State. So it is that the life of the beer board, euphemistically yclept Alcoholic Control, is beset with much distraction and many importunities.

TWO CODES.

A novel argument that Congress has a constitutional right to strike the gold clause from public and private contracts was presented to the House by its banking committee. Anticipating an attack upon the repudiation bill because of its alleged unconstitutionality, the committee gave careful attention to that phase of the subject. It emphatically concludes that Congress has ample authority to set aside the gold clause in all obligations, public and private, both past and future.

Congress has undisputed authority to borrow money, and the Constitution also allows it all the power that is necessary to make that authority effective. The committee contends that the Government would be hampered in the exercise of its borrowing powers if payment of the new bonds were to be placed on a different basis than payment of the existing bonds. Hence, it considers repudiation of the gold clause necessary.

This argument misses the central point at issue. Does Congress have the right, under the Constitution, to pledge the good faith of the United States, and then deliberately break that pledge because it considers it wishes to borrow more money?

Apparently there is no specific provision in the Constitution that forbids Congress to interfere with private contracts. The fundamental law specifically forbids the States to encroach upon the right of contract, but nothing definite is said as to what Congress may do in this respect. "Contracts of private individuals, past or future," says the banking committee report, "are valid and enforcable only in so far as they do not conflict with the public policy as enunciated by Congress in the exercise of its constitutional powers." If the letter of the Constitution is followed, it appears that individuals who have written the gold clause into contracts will have no recourse after this nullification bill becomes law.

But that does not dispose of the obligations undertaken by the Government. The committee asserts that "all contracts of the Government are made in the light of this inalienable power to legislate as the public interest may demand." This is a rather strange theory, which, carried to its logical conclusion, would mean that any obligation of the Government may be nullified if a majority in Congress agree to that course. In other words, the Government would hold itself exempt from the standards of good faith which are imposed on private individuals and corporations.

If this theory prevails, every one who deals with Uncle Sam will be put on notice that his contract may be upset by a passing whim in Congress. Apparently the authors of the Constitution did not realize that such a situation might arise. It was not conceivable at that time that the United States might adopt a code of morals differing from the code that binds honest men.

But the constitutionality of this legislation will be decided by the United States Supreme Court, and not by Congress.

Republicans heartily endorse the whole Roosevelt program in the abstract, but they refuse to attend the London conference in the concrete.

There will be a boost of silver at the London conference or Key Pittman will tell 10,000 silver miners the reason why.

SCRAPPING OF SHIPS

From the Houston Post.

By this time the United States should have a considerable reputation as a scrapper of ships, and along with that reputation one for being a "sap" for doing it.

Admiral Hutch Cone, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, states that since the war this country has led the world in breaking up cargo ships of semiobsolete type, and that during the last six months the total American flag tonnage removed from registry surpassed the scrapping activities of all other nations combined.

While the United States has been scrapping its vessels not regarded as first class, other maritime nations have been holding on to theirs and sending their ships into every corner of the world, seeking business at cut rates, thereby offering a devastating competition to American shipping.

At the same time, foreign nations have been building new ships in great numbers, while this country has built few. In the last ten years we have built 100 ships of a total gross tonnage of 850,000. In the same period Great Britain built 1,400, with a gross tonnage of 8,500,000 tons.

This scrapping of merchant vessels is a reminder of the scrapping of war vessels following the naval arms limitation conference in Washington in 1922. At that gathering the smart boys from abroad inveigled the United States into a ship-scrapping agreement that looked as though it might usher in the millennium shortly. We took some of our good warships out into the Atlantic and sunk them without a trace. Other nations made a pretense of sinking some of their ships, but there is plenty of evidence that the vessels they got rid of were junk which they would have thrown out of their navies soon, anyhow.

Then these other nations proceeded to build up their navies to treaty strength, while the United States has failed to keep its navy at anything like what it is allowed under the terms of the Washington treaty.

Their Spirit Goes On.

Japan has not occupied Peiping in a military sense; the army just took possession in the usual uncivil manner.

Viscount Ishii's amiable acceptance of everything in principle is like Japan's bent for iron-bound treaties—wrought iron.

There is no disposition to apply the Sour Apple Tree theme to Ambassador Davis, but some suspicion that criticism is related to sour grapes.

"Morgan flotations netted millions." Whatever faults may be disclosed, it was never pretended that his house was established as a health resort.

Democratic teamwork got its signals a bit mixed as the Ambassador at Large promised cooperative action against an aggressor while senators, unaccountably at large, decided any embargo must apply equally to all belligerents concerned.

Reconcile this on your harmonica: France demands security from attack and Japan insists on being secured in the fruits of her attack on China.

You doubtless were relieved to hear that light ray which has been loafing along from Arcturus at 186,000 miles a second for 40 years really turned up in Chicago in time to light up the exposition opening.

It is liable to be a handicap to vendors of bonds and tax receipts next month that so many cash customers will hope to buy with cheaper dollars later on.

Something tells us that Germany's acute shortage of currency and gold is going to have a mysterious connection with short-term credits and American private loans that are falling due.

The Pennsylvania woman who slashed her wrists and took poison in an airplane suicide attempt at 1,500 feet was certainly deficient in practical resourcefulness.

JUST FOLKS

MEMORIAL DAY.

Now in these troubled days once more
Unto our glorious dead we come!
Stilled are the bugle and the drum
And stilled the hateful cannon's roar.
For us they died!
Be ours the pride
Of steadfastness when shadows fall.
Let us be worthy of them all!

Flowers on their graves and flags to wave
But little mean when storms assail
And dangers threaten, if we fail
To be as brave as they were brave.
Each silent mound
Of holy ground
Green gleaming 'neath the sun of May
Bids us to be as strong as they.

What is remembrance? Just a thought,
A blossom or a falling tear
On one brief morning of the year;
Or is it something finer, caught
From hero lives
Which long survives
To hearten, strengthen and inspire
When hearts grow faint and bodies tire?

Let us our pledge of faith renew!
Once more the call to duty sounds,
Beside our hallowed hero mounds.
Let us remember to be true
And face our task
As they would ask.
Against the perils of the day
Let us be warriors—such as they!

Man Has Small Chance If the Rules Require Giving a Snake the First Bite.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN a cotton-belt village, some years ago, a black boy from the country sat on the sidewalk in front of a hardware store, at peace with the world. Another field hand, coming up behind him, selected an ax handle from a sidewalk display and cracked it over his astonished head.

A second blow descended before he could get to his feet, but he then grappled with his assailant and held on until bystanders interfered.

The law, which frowns on personal combat, fined each boy $10.

At the last Kentucky Derby, two young riders used their whips in a neck-and-neck finish. One of them, sensing defeat, reached out and caught the other's saddle blanket.

If you were straining every nerve to reach a goal that promised fame and fortune, and some unfair competitor should attempt a trick to rob you of the victory almost within your grasp, what would your reaction be?

Instinctively and desperately you would fight back to protect your property.

Yet the boy who attacked and the boy who struck back were given precisely the same punishment.

In the old West, where public opinion was the only law, the man who reached for his gun thereby absolved his adversary of all blame for what followed. If he died, the fault was his own. The other man was privileged to defend himself, with the community's blessing.

Some years ago one of the Southern States passed a law making the lie the first blow. That was going a bit too far, but the theory was sound. By all the rules of fair play and common sense, the man attacked in any manner has the right to defend himself.

America is forgetting that ancient truth. There is a growing tendency to forget the spirit of justice and keep the letter of the law. And the usual result is to make the law an ally of the criminal.

The victim of attack is handcuffed by the rules, while little effort is made to enforce the rules against the one who attacks him.

Take the case of the racketeer. If he should point a gun at you and demand your purse, none would question your right to shoot him down. But if he appears unarmed at your place of business, coolly informing you that your home will be bombed unless you pay for "protection," you dare not defend yourself. The threat against your life is real, but it isn't immediate.

What chance have honest men when they are denied the right to "take the law into their own hands," and the criminal, thus protected, has nothing to fear except the expense and inconvenience of a mistrial?

THE TENT OF REMEMBERING

By Alma Durant Nicolson.

ONE by one our brothers pass
From warring world to the vast unknown
Where God greets all brave souls
Who have given—and have gone.

On a hillside, by a river,
Restful in the quiet of God,
There stands the Tent of Remembering!
Here let your mind and soul
Come—where nature opens her arms,
Birds are singing in the blue sky,
And through many branches is heard
The call of immortality—
A song of light and joy!

By the Tent is a Garden,
Fragrant with red roses of sacrifice.
In the Tent the hearth glows
With light and hope;
An altar where burns
Love's untiring flame,
Fed with shining flowers,
In memory of our beloved ones,
Who, though gone, have entered the morn—
For Death is dawn!

POLITICAL COMMENT

Confidence.

Morris (Minn.) Tribune.

The President has confidence in his plans, and fortunately, the country has confidence in his purpose. This confidence in the purposes of the President may in the end prove of much more benefit to the country than the operation of the plans, which have still to be tested as to their practical application.

1933 Version.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BACK TO THE OLD DAZE.

America, which recently fell on its face speeding through what it thought was a "new era," is going mid-Victorian. Following the complete surrender to the jig-saw puzzle, the country is now going in for a revival of roller skating, bicycling and kindred diversions of grandma's day.

• • • •

Roller skating as a sport of the young has broken out like a spring rash in New York, where the debutantes have taken to it in a big way, turning the parks into roller skating rinks and the sidewalks into speedways.

• • • •

No party is a success in smart circles today unless roller skating, jig-saw puzzles, hoop rolling and a little plain and fancy bicycling are introduced at some point.

• • • •

A return to the magic lantern and the family album is to be expected with the trend. Before the year is out a young man may consider his evening with his girl friend incomplete if they haven't put in an hour or so looking at pictures of Gettysburg, Niagara Falls and the Eiffel Tower through the stereoscope.

• • • •

A bicycling fever is reported in many parts of the country, with Hollywood taking to "wheeling" with all the frenzy of the Gay Nineties. In the movie colony the "scorcher" of McKinley's administration has returned in fine form and the theme song of screenland is "You'll Look Sweet Upon the Seat of a Bicycle. Built for Two."

• • • •

Bicycle manufacturers report the biggest boom in years, and there are marked indications that America, badly battered from two decades of swift living, has decided to go slow with Queen Victoria.

• • • •

Grandmother could go on almost any affair these days and find herself the life of the party, and if grandpop would show up on his high-wheeled bike he would be a sensation.

• • • •

It is a common experience to get run over by some dowager rushing to a jig-saw party on roller skates or knocked for a loop by a debutante speeding to her wedding on a bicycle.

• • • •

REFINANCING THE NEW DEAL.

The R. F. C. is now so broke that it may have to borrow money. How about a new commission to be known as the Commission for the Reconstruction and Refinancing of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation?

DEAD-END STREET.

After I've loved you with all of my heart,
You want to be friends as we were at the start;
After I've given you body and soul,
You offer friendship for the love that you stole;
After those hours of sweet, precious bliss,
You'd give a handshake, instead of a kiss;
You, who could take me, and make me obey,
You chose to take me—and throw me away;
Now we've been lovers, you want to be friends,
Can this be the way that all "true love" ends?
I'm sick, I'm disgusted, I'm tired of life,
I guess, after all, I'll go back to my wife!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Old-Fashioned American Protests Against Proposed Law to Repudiate Contracts Calling for Gold.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our Government has done many things in my lifetime that were questionable and not altogether creditable, but little did I ever think that my Government, for whose honor I have fought to defend and protect, would ever be guilty of an act so reprehensible as to repudiate and dishonor by law its own solemn obligations, and destroy the obligations of contract between its own individual citizens.

Such are the inevitable results of the pending bill ending the gold standard and requiring settlement of all contractual obligations in the currency of the country. Such a law makes scraps of paper of the Government's obligation written in its bonds to pay them in gold, and robs the creditor for the benefit of the debtor.

There is probably nothing in the Federal Constitution forbidding such action, and it is therefore another case of "might making right."

The result of such a law will be that the value of our currency will be equal only to the confidence of the people in the stability and honor of our Government, and that confidence must sink to a pretty low level after such an act on the part of the Government.

Culbertson on Bridge

WHAT PRICE BRILLIANCY

WHAT those who play Bridge may say about my game, none of them doubt that I am a brilliant bidder—in fact, at times, extraordinarily brilliant. As a result of this brilliancy in bidding and equal brilliancy in play, I recently went down 9 tricks vulnerable on a contract to take 9. Yet every step in the bidding and play still appears to me as logical—which merely goes to show, I suppose, that logic is not infallible.

The hand which brought about this remarkable result was:

West, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Mrs. Culbertson.

♠ 5 3 2
♡ Q J 10 7 6
◇ 8 7 3
♣ 10 6

Mr. von Zedtwitz ♠ 8 7 6 ♡ A 9 3 2 ◇ Q J 10 6 ♣ 5 3

Mr. Balfe ♠ A Q J 10 9 ♡ K 5 ◇ A K ♣ 9 7 5 2

♠ K 4 ♡ 8 4 ◇ 9 4 ♣ A K Q J 8 4 3

Mr. Culbertson.

The bidding: (Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♠	Dbl.(1)
Redbl.(3)	2♡	Pass	2NT
Pass	3♡	Pass	3NT(3)
Dbl.(4)	Pass	Pass	Pass(5)

1—The only chance in this situation is aggressive defense. To pass or to bid clubs simply invites the opponents, practically unhampered, to reach a game contract in spades or diamonds. As a matter of fact, they can make a Slam in either suit. Therefore, this aggressive action, designed to conceal weakness.

2—Mr. von Zedtwitz's Redouble comes as a matter of course.

3—Again it is useless, from the standpoint of defense, to bid the clubs. With a seven-card suit, other hands also must be unbalanced, and showing my suit at this time is merely an invitatoion to opponents to go on and take the rubber as they please. My reasoning for this bid is that I apparently hold 8 tricks, assuming a spade Opening. Perhaps my partner has a stop in diamonds. She has bid and rebid hearts, so she must have some little strength there. It appears at worst that I should be defeated 1 trick at a contract of three notrump.

4—Mr. von Zedtwitz refuses to let me out with a light penalty.

5—The question is: Shall I stand by my guns or shall I turn and flee? I studied it at length, and finally reached the decision to stand by.

The result was too painful for words. In the first place, west crossed me by opening a diamond, rather than the spades which had been bid against me. He and his partner then reeled off 6 diamond tricks, interspersed with the King and Ace of hearts. In the meantime I had been forced to bare down to five cards. I knew that Mr. von Zedtwitz was a very fine player. The normal play for him to make next would be to throw me in with a club and force me to lead from whatever my spade holding might be up to Mr. Balfe. I knew that Mr. von Zedtwitz was too good a player not to make the correct play. Therefore, I discarded my single guard to the spade King. Mr. von Zedtwitz was now in a difficult situation. He, too, knew that he should lead a club and force me to lead away from my spade holding to Mr. Balfe's announced strength, but unfortunately he held no clubs, and therefore, instead of the anticipated club lead, he led a spade—and the result was that I failed to take a single trick, my now unguarded King falling pitifully under Mr. Balfe's Ace and my beautiful honors in the club suit dropping on his successive leads.

My partner was not very pleased, but my readers, I know, will be glad to learn that experts can sometimes make more tragic errors than those with much more limited experience.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If South opens the bidding with two hearts, North responds with three diamonds, South bids four diamonds and North then bids four notrump, what further bid should South make?

South, Dealer.

Stocks Advance 1.2 Points In Heavy, Erratic Trading

Oils, Amusements, Metals Join Rails in Lead; Sales, 6,953,740 Shares.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Stock found the sailing a bit choppy at times today, but swells of new buying offset waves of preholiday profit-taking and the closing average was higher.

Activity continued unusually brisk, sales totaling 6,953,740 shares, the second largest volume of the big spring push. Oil, amusement, metal and several railroad issues were favored for the advance, whereas numerous so-called pivotal industrials and utilities failed to get very far. There was a sprinkling of net losses at the close, especially in the wet bloc and farm implements.

Taking the day as a whole, the market was somewhat erratic, rallying from an early decline by industrials, then backing and filling for a spell and finally making another bid for higher levels. Plainly, inflation was still the day's watchword in trading circles, though students of trade trends found some favorable symptoms as to the state of business.

An advance in copper to 7½ cents a pound, highest for about a year, appeared responsible for the interest taken in metal shares. This is probably not a profit level for even the lower cost producers, but it is a close approach to that point and the market was favorably impressed. Some copper stocks had extreme advances of around 2 points.

Oils were cheered by reports that a rise in crude quotations was coming, as well as by freshened hopes that something can be done toward effectively regulating output. Seaboard, Texas Corp., Standards of New Jersey and California, Consolidated, Atlantic Refining and Socony Vacuum were up fractions to a couple of points.

New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Railway lifted sharply toward the close, the last named showing a net gain of 4 points, while the other two improved 2½. Lehigh Valley, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Lackawanna and Northern Pacific strengthened, but less extensively. Some of the preliminary traffic figures for last week showed up favorably. April earnings, however, ran about 10 per cent under a year ago.

American Telephone, after early profit-taking, in which many other leaders shared, reached a new high at 120½, then fell back to close virtually unchanged. General Motors, General Electric and U. S. Steel common ended the day at Saturday's final prices, but U. S. Steel preferred, American Can, Westinghouse, United Aircraft, Warner Bros., Nash, Loew's and Sears-Roebuck were gainers to the extent of more than a point. Allied Chemical, Case Harvester, Du Pont and the "wet" group were lower. Union Pacific also backed up.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange today was cheerful, rubber shares being strong on reduced stocks and hopes of further restrictions. Industrials were in good demand and Transatlantic issues were firm early, but eased later on the irregular Wall street opening. Gilt-edged securities yielded on profit-taking, while other foreign issues were irregular. The closing was steady.

Paris—Prices on the bourse followed Wall street's Saturday rise, everything benefiting except rentes, which declined until bargain hunters stiffened the market. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was quiet and prices closed slightly better.

CURB CLIMBS AGAIN TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The curb market climbed to new high territory today under the impetus of heavy buying in oils and mining shares.

Activity which taxed trading facilities at times was at the highest rate since September 21, 1931, sales approximating 880,000 shares compared with 562,000 last Friday.

Fifty Trade Groups Join U. S. in Drive to Prosperity

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—With the passage by the House of the national industrial recovery act, industry is taking prompt steps to beat the draft and enlist as a "partner" of the Government in its battle against unemployment and corporate deficits.

Some 50 trade associations have signified their intention of aligning themselves with the new Governmental program.

The speed with which things are moving is indicated by the news of the voluntary progress already made by business. The National Electrical Manufacturers Association—involving 369 manufacturers who employed 250,000 persons in 1929—voted special power to its board of governors last week to carry through whatever measures are necessary to put the industry into partnership with the Government.

BONDS SENT HIGHER AS TRENDS CHANGE

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Bonds showed divergent trends today over the list as a whole and also within individual groups. The rails gave a particularly incongruous performance, with gains and losses runing about even.

Trading interest was stimulated in some parts of the market by a late show of buoyancy in stocks. Volume approximated $15,789,000, based on the action of 60 representative issues.

FLOUR MARKETS.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—FLOUR—Steady; spring patents, 5.00@5.40; soft winter straights, 4.70@4.95; hard winter straights, 5.15@5.40.

WHEAT PRICES SINK ON HOLIDAY SELLING

Favorable Reports of Crops Blamed; Other Grains Join Decline.

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—Except when counterbalanced through Eastern buying based on strength shown in securities and cotton, a downward trend manifested itself in grain prices today.

Indications of a record-breaking carryover of stock wheat in producing countries this season were reported, and favorable crop advices from spring wheat territory both sides of the Canadian line served as an additional handicap to bulls. There was a notable curtailment of recent general public eagerness for wheat ownership, and talk was heard that inflation had been discounted as a market factor for at least the time being.

Wheat closed steady, ½ cent off to ½ up, compared with Saturday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅞ lower; oats, at ¼ decline to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents down.

Holiday Is Blamed.

Reluctance to have risks open during tomorrow's holiday accounted in some degree for a noncommittal attitude assumed by numerous traders who of late had been conspicuous on the purchase side of the wheat market. Hesitancy was also due to assertions that sales of bullion at New York implied the United States now had about 18 per cent inflation, and that grain prices had more than discounted this. Under such circumstances, wheat declined more than a cent a bushel before showing much power to rally.

Renewed buying in the last half of the day lifted the market at times to well above Saturday's close, but the advances were mostly transient. Some of the increased purchasing was associated with Washington gossip that the administration was committed to plans to advance commodity prices much higher than at present. In this connection, it was pointed out that Government reports showed producers had received an average of $1.23½ a bushel for wheat in 1926-27 and $1.20½ in 1927-28.

Improved conditions for corn planting tended to pull corn and oats prices down.

Provisions averaged lower with hog values and with grains.

Silks are very quiet, most of the business being done on sheer or printed silks for immediate use. Rayon yarns are very firm with little business being booked until after the holiday. Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MEMORIAL DAY G. A. R. services at Arlington will be broadcast by WJSV and WRC at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Secretary of War Dern and Secretary of the Navy Swanson will deliver the addresses. Music popular at the time of the Civil War will be played by the Marine Band, led by Capt. Taylor Branson.

Gen. John J. Pershing will speak in an American Legion program broadcast over WRC at 4 o'clock. He will be introduced by Frank E. Samuel, adjutant of the legion, and the United States Army Band, which was originally organized at the suggestion of Gen. Pershing, will play a half hour's program under the direction of Capt. William J. Stannard.

A Memorial Day program from the new Citizens' Conservation Camp at Fort Sheridan will be broadcast over WRC at 3 p. m. This will consist of music by the Fort Sheridan Band, talks by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Col. W. H. Burt, chief of staff in charge of the camp, and interviews with a number of the citizen campers. It will be the first broadcast from any of these camps.

The Department of the District of Columbia American Legion Auxiliary will feature a Memorial Day talk by Representative Elnar Hoidale, of Minnesota. Henry C. Nestor, Washington barytone singer, will conclude the program with "The Star-Spangled Banner." Mrs. Ruth T. Pritchard, chairman of the radio committee, will be in charge.

SENATOR J. HAM LEWIS, of Illinois, who will be heard in the National Radio Forum at 9:30 p. m., will divide his talk into two parts. The first half will be a Memorial Day address and in the second half he will discuss current legislation and the Nation's outlook for the future.

The Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago will contribute a program entitled "Memorial Day at the Fair," which will be broadcast over the WJZ network at 5 p. m. from the Court of Science Building, which may or may not be taken by WMAL.

Apparently the Indianapolis Memorial Day motor race is not scheduled today. The difficulty, if the race doesn't go on, was in getting a sponsor to come through with $12,000 for the privilege of broadcasting it.

At the Indianapolis race they are going to try to communicate by short-wave between one of the racing cars and the pit crew, to give them advance notice so that time may be saved in changing tires and making other repairs.

According to Tom Curtin, script writer who specializes in police dramas, it happened at the Welfare Island Penitentiary. "What are you in for?" asked a visitor of a prisoner. "Learnin' to be warden," answered the inmate without batting an eye. "I'm startin' at the bottom."

BEN K. PRATT, public relations man for N. B. C. in Chicago, has been put in charge of special broadcasts at the Century of Progress Exposition. It will be his task to see that listeners don't miss any of the worth-while features. He will cover the exposition for the radio much the same as a correspondent would cover it for his newspaper.

Mr. Pratt is about as well equipped for his present assignment as any man in the country. He is well known to high officials in Washington through his work in the national political campaigns.

Jane Addams, Frank Bane, director of the American Public Welfare Association, and Louis Brownlow, former District Commissioner, director of the Public Administration Clearing House, will speak from Chicago over WMAL at 9:15 p. m.

"Lopez speaking" comes through the loud speaker to identify Vincent Lopez, who has been broadcasting since the days of crystal sets. But the first time it was confided to a microphone nobody heard it. That was back in February, 1922, when Lopez and his orchestra undertook to introduce jazz on the air at the old WJZ station in Newark, N. J. It was Sunday and a station executive, suddenly horrified at the thought of syncopation on the Sabbath, ordered his program canceled. Nothing was said to Lopez and he played his selections for an hour before a "dead mike."

Finalists in the ninth national spelling bee will compete before a WJSV microphone in the auditorium of the National Museum at 11 o'clock this morning. Last year's champion was Dorothy Greenwald, of Iowa, who will be unable to defend her title because she is now in high school. Cash prizes totaling $1,750 will be awarded.

THE Memorial Day races at Belmont Park, starting at 2:45 p. m., will be described over WMAL. Two races will go on the air, a match race to determine the champion thoroughbred mare of America, between Top Flight and Tred Avon, and the Withers Stakes, worth $16,000 to the winner, in which Ladysman, Dynastic, Swivel, Golden Way and De Valera are among those competing.

Fredericka Blankner, of the department of Italian at Vassar College, writer, poet and journalist, will speak during the Woman's Radio Review on Memorial Day on "Mussolini As I Knew Him." Her talk, to be heard at 3:30 p. m., E. D. S. T., over an N. B. C.-WEAF network, is based on six interviews which Miss Blankner had with Italy's dictator during a recent period of study in Mediterranean countries.

When Duke Ellington and his orchestra board the Olympic June 2 for London they plan to reverse the routine and sleep 20 hours a day instead of working 20 and sleeping 4. This week they are making a short, "A Bundle of Blues," which features their Cotton Club hit, "Stormy Weather," for Paramount and shooting starts at 9 a. m.

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

IF May 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1:50 p. m. to 2:20 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:20 a. m. to 7:40 a. m., and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The child born on this May 30 will probably be an unthinking little one who as a result will allow himself to get into all kinds of foolish scrapes. The child should not be allowed to become overly excited. Will have a memory well adapted to recording detailed facts.

If May 30 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person given to few words. When the occasion demands it, however, you have the ability to express yourself forcefully and vividly. People always listen to what you have to say. You take great pleasure in delving into the mysterious and bizarre; it would not be at all surprising to find that you evince more than the usual interest in matters occult.

Born on May 30, you fall in all probability among that group known as "thinking people." You are a "doer," not a "talker," whether your interests lead you into the field of finance, teaching, religion or into one of many other possible fields, you will not be without your following and the chances are that you may be a leader and authority in pursuit of your adoption. You have a great love for children. It is probably your simplicity of nature and your bigness of heart that draws people of all ages to you. You may experience some difficulty in finding your right mate, for in your more youthful days you will have a tendency to be fickle.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

They're always tearing down buildings in this town. . . . Even more so than ever now. . . . But they're not piling up more skyscrapers this time; they're making way for beer gardens.

At last New York is to have sidewalk cafes, just like those in Paris. . . . Making something of a bum out of this department, which has been contending for years and years that the town could never have them because of the canyons of high buildings and the resultant wind currents. . . .

But, the sidewalk lounging places are to be with us in another fortnight or so, although they will not be in the skyscraper districts. . . . Most of them are to be built onto the hotels overlooking Central Park. . . . They will have sliding glass fronts so they may be enclosed during inclement weather.

I wonder if the city will operate its own beer gardens in Central Park. . . . It already has a night club there, but considering the groggy state night life business has fallen into, I doubt if it has added much revenue to the municipal budget.

With the Celebrities.

That midtown hotel noted for its round table where gather literary and theatrical celebrities has a new institution—an after-theater supper club. . . . Here the stars of stage and screen drop in for what is better known as a midnight snack. . . . If they feel in the mood, they often give impromptu entertainment on the diminutive dance floor.

I dropped in the other night with Tallulah Bankhead for a sandwich—ham and cheese on rye. . . . She was much surprised to find her new leading man, Fred Keating, there enjoying himself on a bus man's holiday. . . . He was in the middle of the floor making canaries disappear and doing his other startling tricks of magic.

Magician Turned Actor.

Keating dropped his magician's career when Miss Bankhead persuaded him to become a legitimate actor and play opposite her in her new comedy. . . . He proved to be an excellent and romantic actor, reminding one a great deal of Herbert Marshall.

Frank Case, who has been operating hotels for 30 years, runs this late supper club. . . . He is glad beer is back, although he used to be an ardent dry. . . . For instance, he took out the bar and stopped selling liquor in his hotel three years before the eighteenth amendment was passed. . . . His customers were so surprised that it was weeks before they wouldn't believe it was merely one of his practical jokes.

NATS-YANKS MAY DRAW 30,000 TO TWIN BILL TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS department doesn't like to disillusion the fight-loving baseball public, but there is likely to be a couple of timid ball teams out there on the field at Griffith Stadium this afternoon.

League President Harridge has warned the boys that there must be no more rowdyism in his league or he will demand their personal checks for large amounts, which seems to make it unanimous that there will be no more rowdyism.

But the Nats and Yankees still hold each other in great distrust. There doubtless will be a great many dirty looks flung across the diamond from the benches, but otherwise the two clubs are liable to be very well behaved. And the infielders will probably show a great deal of alacrity in getting off the bags when the base runners have the right of way.

Stern to Players But Not To Scribes.

When President Harridge warned the boys he was very stern about it, but to the newspapermen he said it with a smile that he couldn't hide. His announcement was made just before the game at Yankee Stadium when the normal Friday crowd of 10,000 had swelled to 25,000 and Mr. Harridge was thus not very grieved at the result of the fisticuffing in Washington earlier in the week.

The two teams were very demure in that New York series, confining their rage to outbursts upon the umpires, and they are not calculated to get very rough today. Both clubs are up there holding pennant visions and, with healthy suspensions in addition to fines due the players who make the first fighting gesture, they are also responsible to their club owners, who may not be lenient if their pennant prospects are threatened by long suspensions.

Ah, Well, It Was All in The Family.

Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs, who is equally nutty about stringed instruments and the stage, even permitted Rubin to manage the Cubs during an exhibition game with Los Angeles, so the story goes.

Ike Danning, the Jewish catcher, was behind the plate for the Cubs, and Jimmie Reese was at bat for Los Angeles with the winning run on base. Rubin, doing very well in his managerial role, shouted to Danning in Jewish to signal the pitcher for a low ball.

Referee Stops Battle After Knockdowns; 20,000 Thrilled.

WRIGLEY FIELD, Los Angeles, May 29 (A.P.).—In the most spectacular upset the welterweight division has known in many years, Jimmy McLarnin, of Vancouver, B. C., won the welterweight championship tonight when he knocked out Young Corbett, of Fresno, Calif., in the first round of their ten-round bout here tonight.

Two minutes and 37 seconds after the first round opened McLarnin floored Corbett for the second time. The Fresno southpaw staggered to his feet at the count of 8. His back was turned to McLarnin. The Irishman rushed across the ring and punched Corbett in the jaw again and Referee George Blake stopped the contest immediately. Corbett was out on his feet.

A few seconds before Corbett

Dempsey Assumes Job of Coaching Baer; 'Keep Head Down, Left, Right,' He Bawls

Old Mauler Directs Every Punch of Young Fighter.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 29 (A.P.).—Versatile William Harrison Dempsey added another job today to the multitude of duties he has undertaken in promoting a 15-round heavyweight duel between Max Schmeling and Max Baer in the Yankee Stadium June 8.

For the last two days he has sparred with each of his hirelings. In between times he has raced from camp to camp, shaking thousands of hands, selling tickets, appearing at everything from horse shows to amateur fight cards. Today he took over the job of coaching Baer, his rollicking young giant of a contender from California.

For five rounds, as the tremendously muscled youngster banged away at his sparring partners, Dempsey stood alone on a platform beside the sun-drenched ring in the center of an open field and directed every punch Baer threw.

Don't Ever Stop, His Warning.

"Underneath," he barked in his shrill voice. "Keep your head down. Left to the body, now right, now left. Keep punching. Keep moving in. Don't ever stop or this German will knock your brains out."

For the first time since Baer started his workouts here several weeks ago, there was order and definite purpose in his drilling. So far, though Baer is down to 212 pounds and in perfect physical condition, his work has been hampered by his clownish attitude.

"Get in there, you big clown," he howled at Baer. "Fight. Punch. Keep slugging to the body. You take one backward step against Schmeling and you'll land right on your shoulder blades."

Joe Jacobs Seeking Dempsey as Referee

New York, May 29 (U.P.)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, announced tonight that he will ask the New York Boxing Commission to appoint Promoter Jack Dempsey as referee of Schmeling's bout with Maxie Baer at Yankee Stadium on June 8. Jacobs said he was certain Baer and his manager, Ancil Hoffman, would sanction the move, because both were pleased with Dempsey's officiating at the Baer-Paulino Uzcudun bout at Reno a couple of years ago. Because of Dempsey's popularity, his presence as third man in the ring also would help the gate, Jacobs pointed out.

Contender Is Making Effort to Shorten His Punches.

Baer came over to him between rounds for more advice.

Trying to Shorten Punches.

Dempsey's coaching indicated the type of fight Baer plans to make against the German who beat Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight title on a foul only to lose it again last summer on a decision. Baer is trying to shorten his punches, hunch forward with his gloves fairly high and close to his shoulders, moving in constantly, banging with both hands. It is the style of battle experts agree will cause Schmeling the most trouble.

Baer's worst tendency is to step back, his guard loose, confident in his ability to absorb anybody's punches. No one yet has been able to hurt him. He has whipped all but the top three heavyweights—Sharkey, Schmeling and Carnera—without once being knocked down.

Today he gave Seal Harris, a 240-pound Negro, a terrific body beating for two rounds, and did the same to Pete Wiatort, Chicago sparring partner. He worked a round for speed with George Simpson, Oakland, Calif., light-heavyweight, with a half dozen rounds of calisthenics and bag-punching.

BARRY WINS BOUT FROM BELANGER

District Heavy Earns Decision; Wright Takes 17th.

By DAVE HERMAN.

REDEEMING himself for his disappointing defeat at the hands of Les Kennedy a few months ago, Donald (Red) Barry, 21-year-old heavyweight, fought his way to a richly earned unanimous decision over Charley Belanger, the veteran Canadian champion, last night at Portner's Arena. The District boxer put on one of his best exhibitions before the smallest crowd of the season.

Barry had a 20-pound weight advantage on his opponent, tipping the beams at 196, and even in the face of such handicap, Belanger scrapped courageously.

Belanger won the first three rounds by a clear-cut margin, rallying to take the second after Barry shook him with a right to the jaw and a left to the body, and throwing twice as many punches as the District fighter in the third. Old age and Barry then began to tell on the Canadian.

Barry Opens Attack.

Putting more power into his vaunted left hook, Barry opened up a concerted attack in the fourth round as he handily captured the last five rounds. Barry suffered a cut under his right eye in the fourth from one of Belanger's sharp rights.

The skeleton crowd gave the local boy a big hand in the fifth, as Barry bounced Belanger with lefts and rights. Barry's continual drumfire of punches had the Canadian champion groggy in the seventh, and the red-haired boxer unlimbered enough shots in the eighth to blow up a battleship.

Barry will fight Tony Shucco on the Schmeling-Baer card.

Bob Tow, Alexandria's bus driver, scored a unanimous eight-round verdict over Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, in a rather drab and colorless bout. Weiner, not in the best of condition, took a count of nine in the first, which he avenged somewhat by opening a cut under Tow's left eye in the seventh.

Wright Awarded Decision.

In the best fight of the program, Cary Wright, Harry Groves' 142-pound protege, was awarded a unanimous six-round decision over Harry Kersey, lanky Jacksonville boxer. The verdict met with a storm of boos. Wright, who did all of the leading, rallied gamely after being on the verge of a knockout in the third round. It was Wright's seventeenth straight victory.

Espisido Dison won a unanimous four-round decision from Tommy Horn, Baltimore, while Barefoot Green stopped Joe Marfield, of Baltimore, after 2 minutes and 15 seconds in the first round. Marfield went down twice before he was counted out the third time.

AUTO RACERS IN CLASSIC TODAY

New Record Forecast at Indianapolis; 42 Entries.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (A.P.).—Forty-two race drivers, undaunted by yesterday's accident which claimed two lives, eagerly await the starting bomb of the annual 500-mile automobile race here tomorrow.

They comprise the fastest and largest field in the 21 years the international event has been run. Most of the pilots expect the winner to shatter the record of 104.144 miles per hour set by Fred Frame, of Los Angeles, a year ago.

Lining up three abreast, the sleek and powerfully motored cars will be sent on their way over the 2½-mile brick track of the Indianapolis motor speedway tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, Central standard time.

First Prize of $12,000 Offered.

First prize will be $12,000, and in all the management will divide $30,000 among the first 10 finishers. A consolation purse will be divided among the other starters, the amounts to be based on the distance traveled by each car.

The driver finishing second tomorrow will get $6,000; third, $3,000; fourth, $2,100; fifth, $1,800; sixth, $1,320, seventh, $1,080; eighth, 960; ninth, 900; tenth, $840. In addition approximately $10,000 in purses will be given by automobile accessory firms.

Changes in the rules will make it necessary for every car to stop at the pits tomorrow at least three times for gasoline. The fuel tanks are limited to 15 gallons capacity, as compared with the 40 to 50 gallon tank of other years.

Cars Limited to Six Gallons Of Oil.

Another feature is the limit of 6 gallons of oil to each racer. In the past, some of the mounts have consumed as high as 40 gallons of oil in 500 miles.

Both changes were made, it was said, in the interest of greater safety. The drivers plan to make up for the time lost in refueling by changing tires at the same time.

All types of cars will compete. Of the 42, fifteen are part-stock—that is, the power plants are those originally constructed for use in passenger automobiles.

Thirty-two of the cars will get their push from eight-cylinder motors, and eight of them will be powered by four-cylinder motors. Two will depend on sixteen cylinders to give them great and sustained speed.

There are six front-wheel drive mounts in the contest, including the original of that type, introduced here in 1925. It will be piloted by Rick Decker, of Staten Island.

One of the cars is a four-wheel drive, and it will be handled by Frank

Shields Leads Foe As Rain Halts Play

Auteuil, France, May 29 (A.P.).—Rain, besetting the French hard court tennis championships for the fourth straight day, washed out Frank Shields' match with Bela von Kehrling, the Hungarian Davis Cup star, today just as the American was in sight of victory.

The meeting of the American and the Hungarian in a third round encounter was the feature of the abbreviated day of play, a severe thunderstorm sweeping the Roland Garros courts with Shields leading three games to none in the fifth and final set.

Other favored players advanced throught the second round of singles play, among them Marcel Bernard, considered the best of the younger French players, Jiro Satoh and R. Nunoi, of Japan; Fred Perry, George P. Hughes and H. G. Lee, of England. Nunoi, champion of Nippon, rallied superbly after being down two sets to defeat young Adrian Quist, of Australia, 2—6, 6—2, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4.

Bob Godwin Pounds Joe King for Victory

Charleston, S. C., May 29 (A.P.).—Bob Godwin, of Washington, scored a technical knockout over Joe King, of Augusta, Ga., in the seventh round of a 10-round bout here tonight.

After King, both eyes badly cut and legs wobby, had got up from the floor twice in the round, Referee Charlie Forbes stepped in and awarded the bout to Godwin, former light-heavyweight contender, who also suffered cuts about the eyes. The fight had been a fairly even affair until the seventh.

Godwin weighed 171, King 176.

North Carolina Judge Denies Bet Injunction

Hendersonville, N. C., May 29 (A.P.).—Judge P. A. McElroy today denied a petition for an injunction against the holding of an election in McDowell County, June 27, on the question of legalizing pari mutuel betting on horse races there.

The last General Assembly authorized pari mutuel betting on horse races in McDowell County, provided voters of the county approve in a referendum. A group of citizens opposing the race measure asked for the injunction.

Mack Hurlers Fail; Grove Will Perform Only in Relief Roles

Philadelphia, May 29 (A.P.).—Lefty Grove, the Athletics' star left-hand pitcher, is going to be used solely as a relief hurler.

For the immediate future, at least, Grove's duties will consist only of holding the opposition in the closing innings

"We have pitchers who can go only six or seven innings, so we'll have to have somebody who can go in and hold the other fellows for the last few innings," Mack explained.

"It's the only way I know that we can stay up in the race.

"Until the rest of the pitchers prove to me they can go the full distance, I'm going to hold Grove back and shoot him in there to save games for us."

Grove finished six of the last eight games played by the A's, winning three and saving the other three. The two games he did not participate in the Macks lost.

Thevenow's Wife Back After Disappearance

Madison, Ind., May 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Margitt Thevenow, wife of Tommy Thevenow, utility infielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, arrived here this afternoon at the home of her father, the Rev. Victor B. Hargitt. She had been missing from her hotel in Pittsburgh since last Wednesday.

Mr. Hargitt said he met his daughter in Cincinnati this morning and returned here with her in the family automobile.

According to her father, she declined to discuss her disappearance from Pittsburgh. She refused to meet newspaper representatives. Her father said she had no comment to make on her future plans.

BLUE COALS IDLE.

Due to a schedule mix-up, the Griffith Blue Coals will idle today. They invade Del Ray Saturday for a game with the home towners.

O'Leary, Champion Walker, Dies at 92

Los Angeles, May 29 (A.P.).—Dan O'Leary, internationally known in the sports world as an endurance walker, died today at the age of 92 after a long illness that confined him to the Glendale Sanitarium.

O'Leary had been a contestant in endurance walks in almost every country in the world and won prizes in England, the United States, Australia and European countries. Only 10 years ago he laid a challenge of $1,000 to $5,000 he could defeat any man in the world at a 500-mile walk, regardless of age, color or nativity.

Until two years ago the veteran athlete had maintained an amazing competitive record which even his old age could not restrain. He made it a habit to stage walking demonstrations every Sunday at the various semi-professional baseball lots in Southern California.

All Britain Awaits Derby Tomorrow

Epsom Downs, Eng., May 29 (A.P.).—All Britain, at least it seemed that way, tonight was headed for this quaint little English village, where 24 of the country's best 3-year-olds, three of them American-owned, will match strides Wednesday for fame and fortune in the 150th running of the Derby.

According to the pre-race betting, three horses will be out in front battling when the field takes "tattenham" and starts for home. They are Lord Woolavington's Manitoba, generally recognized as England's best 2-year-old last year and the 6 to 1 choice; Lord Derby's Hyperion, second choice, at 21 to 2, and Sir Alfred Butt's Young Lover, quoted at 100 to 9.

Lord Derby last won the race, founded by his ancestors in 1780, in 1924, when Sansovino accounted for the classic.

Hopes of American victory lie in Statesman, owned by Victor Emanuel, who has won many English races, but never the Derby; John McCormack's Frans Hals, and W. M. G. Singer's Myosotis. Of the trio Statesman is considered to have the best chance. He is quoted at 18 to 1, as compared to 45 to 1 for Frans Hals and 50 to 1 for the Singer colt.

Regular Police Detail to Enforce Harridge's Order of Strictly Baseball; Yanks Showing Signs of Old Slugging Prowess.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

THE Nats and the Yankees will observe Decoration Day today, not in memory of the heroes that fell in the Battle of Griffith Stadium on Tuesday, April 25, but in deference to the American League schedule that calls for a double-header between the teams this afternoon.

They'll have at each other in a couple of ball games that will find them battling for the league lead which the Yankees now hold by a margin of two games over the Nats. League President Harridge has said that the clashes between the two clubs hereafter must be strictly baseball, but the 30,000 noncombatants who are expected to fringe the battle ground today have either seen or heard tell of what happened here on April 25, and they know that anything can happen in baseball, Harridge's warning to the contrary notwithstanding.

All the heroes of April 25 will be there, a bit fine-and-suspension-shy perhaps, but still in uniform: Belligerent Ben Chapman, of the gleaming spikes; Battle-Scarred Buddy Myer; Whispering Earl Whitehill and the lesser lights of the Yankee charge on the Nats' dugout, Goofy Gomez and Dangerous Don Brennan.

Twenty Policemen to Be On Hand.

Twenty men from Capt. Pearson's Second Precinct Station will also be there, just to see that matters are strictly baseball. It is the usual ball park detail on Sundays. The cops got into the win column on April 25.

Griffith Stadium will be the mecca of the season's biggest crowd today with the first of the two battles to start at 1:30 o'clock and ball park officials prepared to take care of an overflow crowd if the proverbial baseball weather is among those present.

Manager Cronin will toss a couple of his veterans at the Yankees, Earl Whitehill and General Alvin Crowder, although he failed to disclose the order in which they will work. Whitehill, who was decorated with Chapman's first on April 25, will have some personal as well as team motives to fire at the Yankees.

Young Russell Van Atta, whose four-hit shutout pitching against the Nats, left him unsung at the conclusion of the April 25 battle in view of the fisticuffing, doubtless will be sent back against them in one of the two games today. As a working mate, he probably will have Red Ruffing.

Of late the Yankees have been reasserting themselves as the threat of old. Babe Ruth and Gehrig, the gentleman known as Lou, have been supplying some dynamite to the Yankee hitting front which for several weeks had been upheld by the stickwork of Ben Chapman and Bill Dickey, and the manner in which the Yanks blasted the White Sox pitching in the last three days has brought a shudder to the rest of the league.

But the Nats have been the particular millstones about the necks of the Yankees this season. The 16-0 riot that the Yankees won here on April 25 is the only one of the five meetings between the teams that the New York crew has been able to take. Following that performance, the Nats went up to New York and smacked down the Yanks in both games of a two-game series to bring their score against the New York club to four wins and one loss.

It is possible for the lead to change hands during the three-game series here, including the battle Wednesday.

McGraw May Lead Star Team July 6

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Developments today virtually assured the selection of John Joseph McGraw to manage the all-star National League team that will play an all-star American League combination in a special game at Comiskey Park, Chicago, July 6, as a feature of the World's Fair sports program.

Although no formal action has yet been taken by National League club owners, and none will be taken until they hold a meeting here June 20, it was learned that a majority of magnates already have expressed themselves in favor of drafting the man who retired a year ago, after managing the New York Giants for 30 years, instead of picking a pilot from the active list.

Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, came forward today with a definite proposal for McGraw's selection to direct the all-star line-up. Significance was attached to Stoneham's action as an indication that McGraw would be willing to accept the honor, if offered to him.

PASTORS WIN AT GOLF.

The Rev. M. S. Peek, Christian Church minister, carried off the class A title and the Rev. C. M. La Grone, Methodist pastor, won in class B.

California U. Society Plans Open Athletic Proselyting

BERKELEY, Calif., May 29 (A.P.).—Open proselyting of high school athletes was announced today as its future policy by the Big C Society of the University of California.

No comment from any Pacific Coast conference official was immediately available. Conference rules provide no members of athletic staffs or employes of a member institution shall solicit high school athletes. This would not strictly apply to the "Big C."

The whole question of rounding up athletic talent in secondary schools has been a frequent cause for controversy in the past few years. Proselyting charges have been common.

"The society believes success in college athletics should go hand in hand with worthy standards," said the Big C announcement appearing today in the California Alumni monthly. "It is interested in keeping the athletic traditions of the university on a high plane. * * *

"We propose therefore to appoint a representative of this society whose business it shall be to present to secondary school boys interested in sports, the appeal of California as a place of clean athletics combined with high scholastic standards.

"We do not want athletes who are not also students, nor do we wish anyone to come to California for athletics only."

The announcement concluded with a request to "members and friends of the society" for financial support of the plan.

BOWIE FEATURE TO CAPSHEAF AS CHOICES SWEEP CARD

Ladies Swell Crowd to 15,000

Bally Bay Runs Stand-out Into Ground in Feature.

Mad Eagle Shows Up Field in Opener on Program.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THE light blue and brown of the Whitney Stable flashed across the finish line in front of a field of eight in the Glenburnie, the feature race yesterday at nearby Bowie. The colors were on the back of the popular Frank Munden, who was on the back of Capsheaf, a 3-year-old son of Blondin.

It was both Ladies Day and Favorite Day with seven straight public choices stepping down the pay line.

15,000 Crowd Makes Heavy Mutuel Play.

Capsheaf's margin went down on the charts as one of five lengths. At that Bally Bay should get credit for an assist. The Happy Time gelding stepped away in front and ran the legs off Standout and Ilchester. It was when that trio showed the signs of the swift pace that Capsheaf went to the front to draw away in the stretch. Standout lasted into second money with Swinhaven closing well to take the show end.

The crowd was estimated at 15,000 and the mutuel play was heavy. The ladies were well represented in the crowd.

Mad Eagle, the Trueman-trained daughter of Mad Hatter, made a show of her field in the opener. Backed into favoritism, Mad Eagle broke on top and Jockey Quattlebaum hustled her along with Indianola making a game but futile attempt to displace the Herkness filly. In the stretch, Quattlebaum let out a few notches and Mad Eagle fairly burned up the track to the finish. Yap came up to take the place from Source Circle. The winner paid $5.20.

The consistent Lodorous won the second race by three lengths from If Ida, and another length and a half from Incandescent. If Ida, an old rival of the ultimate winner, had the early lead, but Steffen soon sent Lodorous to the front to draw away in the stretch. Lodorous, winning his second race for a new owner, O. Blank, paid $4.60. The latter, however, lost his colt though the claiming box.

Major General Wins by Four Lengths.

Major General won the fourth race over a mile and a sixteenth course by four lengths. Harold Cruz, the Washington boy, had the Major on top rounding the clubhouse turn and there was little to the race thereafter. Cramayre was the chief chaser. Glen Burnie was third. The winner paid $3.20.

Rock Point kept up the favorite parade in the fourth race and, like the other choices, Rock Point left no doubt as to the superior horse. Three lengths behind came Octaroro, with Free Advice, a 478-1 shot, third. Except for a brief period at the start, Rock Point led all the way in the 6 furlongs.

Allison and Stoefen Meet Today in Final

South Orange, N. J., May 29 (U.P.).—Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., member of the United States Davis Cup team, and Lester B. Stoefen, the towering Los Angeles player, will clash tomorrow in the men's singles final of the Orange Lawn Tennis Club invitation tournament.

They won their way to the final today in competition which was featured by the most notable upset of the outdoor court season—the defeat of Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Calif., by Frank Bowden, of New York.

Both Allison and Stoefen went through hard matches to gain the final. Allison downed his doubles partner, John Van Ryn, of East Orange, in the forenoon quarter-final, 2—6, 6—3, 6—2, and in the afternoon eliminated Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, national indoor champion, 6—4, 6—3. Stoefen, who advanced to the semifinal yesterday, blasted Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, off the court, 6—3, 7—5.

Mr. Khayyam Entered For American Derby

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—Mr. Khayyam, surprise conqueror of Head Play in the Woods Memorial nine days ago, will wage another turf duel with the famous Kentucky 3-year-old at Washington Park next Saturday in the $25,000 added American Derby over a mile-and-a-quarter route.

With Head Play already on the ground, Mr. Khayyam is due to arrive at Washington Park tomorow to begin his final prep. Head Play, despite his defeat in the Woods Stake in New York, rules a Derby favorite, due to his performance in finishing second to Brokers Tip in the Kentucky Derby and galloping off with the Preakness a week later. He was quoted at 3 to 1. Turf experts figure that the largest field in an outstanding stake race this year will face the barrier for the Derby.

There were four accidents during the qualifying trials, and one of them caused the deaths of Bill Denver, of Audubon, Pa., and Hugh Hurst, of Indianapolis.

Three other crashes into the walls brought a broken left thigh to Speed Gardner, of Pittsburgh, but only scratches to the five other men in the cars.

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Jockey C. Quattlebaum, who learned to ride on the flat, took a fling at steeplechasing and then came back to the flat, is in rare form. He kicked home a pair of winners yesterday in Mad Eagle and Dunrock. Quattlebaum can ride at light weight and should get plenty of work during the summer. The approximate odds board showed five 100-1 shots in the fourth race yesterday. They were really longer than that, ranging from 254-1 on the field to 491-1 on Strolling Time. One of them, Free Advice, squeezed into the money and paid $36.80 to show with the choices running one, two. Try these getaway day specials.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—SNAPPY STORY beat this kind at Havre de Grace and ran two fair races behind Wise Daughter. Giving this one a chance to top this field. IF IDA ran second yesterday and if sent back is dangerous. Wants an off track for her best. HAIR TRIGGER to show.

SECOND RACE—HACKY H is my best bet. As I said before, this one ran a winning race the last time, but was kept on the rail in the slowest part of the going. I have reason to believe this one is ready for a killing. JUDGE PRIMROSE is far down the list. Dangerous if he gets in. DANCING MACK to show.

THIRD RACE—FLYING MAX drops back a peg in this field and the grand wake-up may be in order. Has some class. TUFFY G. has been running well and may take the place. BIDE A WEE, getting weight from the top pair, for the show.

FOURTH RACE — TAZEWELL turned in a winning performance in a field of this caliber the last time out. Appears the logical selection. DAMASCENE and EVERFAIR for the rest.

FIFTH RACE—TRED AVON, weight and all, will have to be beaten in this test. She is reported in excellent form. If there is an upset, I look for LARRANAGA to be the medium. Closed a world of ground in a recent sprint. Seems on edge. INDIAN RUNNER has a money chance.

SIXTH RACE—LADINO needs an off-track and it looks like he might get it. Hard to beat here. NED O. was sharp the other day and is a good place proposition. DUNFERN to show.

SEVENTH RACE—This is our last chance to catch SYRIAC in Maryland. Must have a jockey in the saddle, however. TARNISH closed fast yesterday. MING SUN to show.

BOWIE, MARYLAND, CHART, MAY 29, 1933.

FIRST RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $800. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:33½. Winner, G. Herkness' b. f. (2), by Mad Hatter—Blue Eagle. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:01 2-5.

MAD EAGLE, quick to settle in her stride, went into a winning lead early, shook off INDIANOLE and drew out at will during the final stages. YAP, forced to race on the outside all the way, closed gamely. SOURCE CIRCLE went well placed and continued stoutly under strong pressure. INDIANOLE showed high speed to reach the pacemaker midway of the turn, swerved badly when reaching the home stretch while tiring and crowded MARGE into the fence. IN CLOVER, no interference when leaving the back stretch. THIS PLAY was outrun. MAROE was badly blocked and knocked off her stride at the final furlong pole and was then eased up after she almost fell.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:07½. Off at 3:10. Winner, O. Blank's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LODORUS, $4.60, $3.00, $2.40; IF IDA, $3.40, $2.60; INCANDESCENT, $2.80.

LODORUS, following IF IDA closely, was placed to punishment when entering the home stretch, wore the pacemaker down and drew out smartly when hard ridden. IF IDA, stoutly ridden and saving ground the entire trip, could not stay with the winner when the real issue came. INCANDESCENT worked her way up on the outside and outstayed LIBERTY OAK. Latter, squeezed back when leaving the back stretch, worked her way into contention and then held on gamely. PEEDESQUE, shuffled back early, closed with good speed when securing racing room. JUNIORITY showed speed in the first half mile. INSPECTION raced close up and had no excuses while saving ground.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, foaled in Maryland. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:42½. Off at 3:43. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAJOR GENERAL, $3.20, $2.40, $2.20; CRAMAYRE, $3.00, $2.60; GLEN BURNIE, $2.80.

MAJOR GENERAL, rushed hard to the first turn to take command, was rated under steadying restraint for the first seven furlongs and then drew out to win with speed in reserve. CRAMAYRE, in nearest attendances of the winner throughout, was easily best of the others. GLENBURNIE, saving ground and kept forwardly placed, held on well for the final drive. CATERWOOD was rushed hard in the last five furlongs, but could not better his position. GAIT made up a lot of ground from a slow beginning.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:17½. Winner, J. Hartman's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROCK POINT, $4.40, $3.20, $2.80; OCTARORO, $4.00, $3.20; FREE ADVICE, $36.80.

ROCK POINT, permitted to race along closely lapped with the early pacemakers, moved into command when ready, opened up a winning lead and was mildly urged during the late stages. OCTARORO, rushed hard from the start, was ORAL bound and continued gamely after being overtaken. FREE ADVICE worked his way up on the inside and came courageously in the final test to outfinish PAINT BOX. Latter, well up and close to the leaders in the first half mile, weakened nearing the finish. SHENVALLEE was unable to reach the leaders. GRACE BLOTTER broke slowly and was outrun. ORAL stopped.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAPSHEAF, $6.60, $4.00, $3.80; STANDOUT, $5.80, $3.80; SWINHAVEN, $3.80.

CAPSHEAF, shuffled back going to the first turn and forced to go to the outside for racing room, reached the leaders stoutly and, wearing down BALLY BAY when midway of the final turn, drew out into an easy lead during the last quarter mile. STANDOUT, prominent from the beginning, was unable to keep pace when put to a drive. SWINHAVEN, allowed to drop far out of early contention, closed ground on the inside entering the home stretch and closed stoutly. MY COUNSELLOR made a strong effort entering the home stretch, but weakened approaching the finish. HUT finished full of run. BALLY BAY quit badly after seven furlongs. ILCHESTER stopped.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—IMA QUEEN, $5.60, $3.00, $2.80; CALGARY KAY, $6.40, $4.40; WISE MONEY, $4.80.

IMA QUEEN, blocked midway of the back stretch, recovered quickly to hold a forward position, swung to the outside of WISE MONEY when reaching the home stretch, wore the latter down, but had to be strongly ridden to stall off CALGARY KAY. Latter, going in improved form, worked his way up on the outside and finished wearing the winner down at every stride. WISE MONEY was rushed vigorously to displace LITTLE WINO and had little speed left when forced to a drive. FAIR SUN finished gamely on the outside at the end. JIMMY D. came steadily from a slow beginning. SOUPCON and CLEAR KNIGHT had a rough trip in the first half mile. WATER LAD refused to break.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUNROCK, $6.80, $4.60, $3.80; TARNISH, $6.80, $6.00; OUR PAL, $11.80.

DUNROCK, kept under strong urging while racing forwardly, responded strongly when reaching the home stretch and, closing fast, was up in the last fifty yards. TARNISH, slow to get into full stride, came around her field and closed full of run. OUR PAL, sluggish in the early stages, entered contention stoutly and came through on the inside to finish gamely in the final drive. HUNTERS, a strong factor for the first mile, faltered after getting to the front at the stretch turn. NEALON KAY went in his best form and had no mishaps. CLOUDY DAY tired from setting the pace. LIGHT BREEZE went evenly.

Steinke Is Small Beside Pinetzki

A couple of slingshots could do a lot of damage at the ball park Thursday night, especially in the semifinal match of Joe Turner's wrestling card in which Hans Steinke and Leo Pinetzki will be opponents. Two of the largest men in the game, a pair which looks to be Gullivers living in a land of Lilliputians when they step into the ring, opposes each other.

Steinke has enjoyed a tremendous physical advantage over opponents in previous bouts here. He outweighed most of them by at least 20 pounds and towered several inches above them in height. Compared to Pinetzki, however, Hans is a mere stripling.

The giant Pole stands 6 feet 8 inches in his sox and when he steps on the Fairbanks the indicator soars dizzily to the 276 mark. Pinetzki dwarfs all other members of the profession, and backing up his immense bulk is a quantity of wrestling knowledge that enables him to go with the best of them.

George McLeod will meet Swede Olsen in the opening preliminary. Tony Felic has been matched with Karl Davis and Andy Brown tangles with "Babe" Caddock.

Coxswain to Captain Navy Crew First Time

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 29.—For the first time in the history of rowing at the Naval Academy, a coxswain has been elected captain of varsity oarsmen for next season. It was announced today Victor H. Krulak, of Wyoming, class of 1934, has been chosen by his mates to succeed Waldemar F. A. Wendt, of Wisconsin, who will graduate from the academy on Thursday. Francis D Boyle, of Washington State, was elected manager.

The new pilot has steered the varsity shell for the last two years, and is regarded as among the most skillful coxswains ever to handle the ropes in a Navy shell. The retiring captain has also rowed on the crew for two years.

Winning the Adams Cup regatta at Cambridge on Saturday, the Middies brought to a close a highly successful season under the tutelage of Charles S. (Buck) Walsh, formerly of Washington. The varsity eight lost only to Princeton in the season opener, and that by a narrow margin. Their victime included Harvard, Massachusetts Tech, Columbia and Pennsylvania.

ROOSEVELT NINE BEATS TECH

Rough Riders Win Series Finale

Pitcher Baroni Tight in Pinches; Catcher Thomas Hurt.

THE battle for second place in the interhigh school series looked like a fine mess of good old Irish stew after Roosevelt finished with Tech yesterday afternoon, although Tech still remains the champion despite its 7-4 defeat inflicted by the Roughriders. Roosevelt slipped into a tie for second honors with Eastern and Central. All have won two and lost two in the series.

Chubby Frank Baroni brought Roosevelt's winning streak up to two straight with his puzzling screw ball. Tech, however, handled his offerings rather familiarly, collecting 10 hits along the route, but Baroni bore down in the pinches leaving runners stranded on the bases who might have knotted the score.

Roosevelt Off to Early Lead.

The eventual winners pounced on Chewning for three runs in the initial frame and were posed for another raid on the scoreboard when Eddie Turner was sent to the rescue. Turner halted the uprising temporarily, but the firing and scoring broke out anew in the third and fifth innings when two runners came pounding over the platter in each instance.

Tech pulled up to within two runs of the enemy with a brief but fruitful rally in the third inning that netted two runs and brought the score to 5-3, but thereafter it never seriously threatened and Roosevelt coasted home with the verdict.

Giovanetti Sherman and Fradin topped the winners at the plate, accounting for seven hits, while Nau, Turner and Wheeler did most of the hitting done by Tech.

Luckily for Tech the game was the final of the series, for Knocky Thomas, regular catcher, cut his hand sliding into third base and was obliged to retire from the fray. Thomas injured the hand last week and started behind the plate despite the fact that the wound was not completely healed.

Handicaps to Govern Women's Golf Naming

Golfers, selected to play in the intercity matches this season under the banner of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association, will be asked to play on the first team in the order of their handicaps, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee, at the home of Mrs. R. N. Sutton. Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, president, presided.

A special committee was appointed to direct the intercity matches. Those named are Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, Chevy Chase, team captain; Mrs. Hubert R. Quinter, Columbia, assistant team captain; Mrs. J. F. Gross, Indian Spring, chairman of the handicap committee; Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, Washington, chairman of the tournament committee, and Miss Harris.

The plans formulated at the meeting will be put into effect with the match with Baltimore Thursday at Manor.

1934 Virginia Gridders Will Play Dartmouth

University, Va., May 29 (A.P.).—Virginia's football team will play Dartmouth in Hanover, N. H., on October 20, 1934, James G. Driver, director of athletics, announced tonight.

This will be the first gridiron game between the Cavaliers and Indians, who have had frequent meetings in other sports, especially baseball and track. A contract has been signed for only one contest, Mr. Driver said.

The Dartmouth date for 1934 comes on the Saturday to be filled by the Navy during the coming season. Virginia's game with the Middies will be moved up to October 7 for the season after next. Mr Driver is not yet prepared to announce the completed Cavalier 1934 schedule, but he said he does not expect to make any change in the Virginia plans for home and home games with V. M. I., V. P. I., Washington and Lee, Maryland and North Carolina.

YANKS HERE TODAY FOR DOUBLE-HEADER

But nothing less than a clean sweep by the Nats is required. But it has been the Nats who have held the Yanks within bounds this season with Washington, the only club to show an edge over McCarthy's men thus far.

The Yankees, though, are rapidly taking shape as the same team of last year. Johnny Allen's return to pitching duties has been successful and, with Lefty Gomez, the two are again the mainstays of the Yankees' staff. Ruffing, however, is not enjoying his 1932 success.

The Nats will go into the double-header with their casualty list still intact. Oscie Bluege, still suffering from a pulled leg muscle, will play only in case of emergency, and Fred Schulte's fractured finger is still confining him to the bench. Bob Boken will get the call over Cecil Travis for third base duties, and Sam Rice will be in center field unless the Nats are called upon to face some left-handed pitching, in which case Dave Harris and his trusty bludgeon will be on hand to do something about it.

Central Defeats G. U. Prep, 3 to 0

Bunching its hits for two runs in the sixth and another in the seventh inning, Central High School scored a 3-0 victory over Georgetown Prep School in their game yesterday at Garrett Park. Both teams performed in flawless fashion afield.

Claude Cowan, Central pitcher, hurled one-hit ball up until the ninth inning, when Kelly and Case punched out singles. McNamara held the Blue and White well in hand with the exception of the sixth frame, when four hits were converted into two runs. Cowan also poled a brace of doubles.

City Doubles Title To Stone-Walker

Mrs. Charles P. Stone and Frances Walker yesterday won the City of Washington women's doubles championship at Rock Creek by defeating Alice Davis, daughter of the Davis Cup donor, and Abbie Sard 3—6, 6—1, 7—5.

In the semifinal of the men's doubles this morning at 10:30 Tom Mangan and Axel Gravem will oppose Gene Herman and Dick Mason.

Drissell, D. C. Boy, Honored at Va. U.

University, Va., May 29 (A.P.).—Virginia's baseball lettermen this afternoon followed the lead set last year and elected two captains, who jointly will serve during the season of 1934.

The cocaptains will be Homer Drissell, of Washington, former Tech High star, and Preston Luck, of Middleburg.

Luck lived up to his name in several contests this season, during which he pitched the Cavaliers to victories over Vermont, Navy and Washington and Lee. In all these contests his hitting helped. He was at the bat seven times during the season, and hit for a total of nine bases. He walked four times. In the tenth inning against the Generals he earned a victory by driving out a home run.

Drissell plays center field. Last spring he led the Cavaliers at the bat, but this season he was handicapped with a bad knee that kept him from playing football last fall.

Drissel and Luck will succeed cocaptains Ward Brewer, pitcher, and Charles Poss, catcher, who jointly led the Cavaliers this spring.

Schmeling to Start Tapering Off Today

Lake Swannanga, N. J., May 29 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, already in excellent physical condition for his 15-round bout with Max Baer at the Yankee Stadium June 8, will begin to taper off his training tomorrow. The workout, scheduled today, was called off.

With just enough work scheduled to keep him on edge, the German heavyweight is expected to go 6 rounds against his sparring partners, working for speed and a defense against Baer's left hook. Barney Baker, who boxes the style of the Californian, has been told to throw plenty of lefts at the former world's champion.

M'LARNIN STOPS CORBETT IN FIRST

had been floored by a right to the jaw.

Here is the detail of the round: Grimly determined to retain the crown he won two months ago Corbett rushed out to take the aggressive after a moment's sparring. The titleholder landed the first punch, a left to the jaw, and followed it up with two more sharp lefts to the jaw. Corbett's driving tactics caught McLarnin unawares. The Irishman was on the receiving end of rights and lefts to the body. Corbett rushed in suddenly and McLarnin sent a terrific right to the chin. To the amazement of the crowd the champion tumbled to the canvas, one of the few times he had been floored in his career. He took a count of nine. McLarnin rushed across the ring, shifted to southpaw style and drove in three lefts to the jaw. Corbett hit the canvas again. He was up at eight, but out on his feet. His back was turned to McLarnin and the Irishman leaped across the ring and landed a terrific right to the jaw. As Corbett started falling Referee George Blake raised McLarnin's hand and the title passed on to a new holder.

More than 20,000 fans saw the attempt of Corbett to defend his welterweight title. Receipts were estimated at around $75,000, somewhat short of earlier predictions. A "gate" of more than $100,000 had been expected.

Celebrities of all walks of life filled the ringside seats. The movie colony of Hollywood had a large representation. James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, occupied a press row seat as a special writer for a Los Angeles newspaper.

Babe Marino, rising young San Francisco welter, and Jackie Fields, who lost the title to Corbett were in the ring as challengers.

Run Useless

Cambridge Tie Is Broken; Pictures Later Reveal Meet Already Won.

NEW YORK, May 29 (A.P.).—Charley Parsons, blond Southern California sprinter, dashed heroically down the 200-meter straightaway at Harvard Stadium yesterday to break a tie with Stanford and win the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships—but it wasn't necessary.

It developed today Southern California had already clinched the meet before this final event was run off, all because the same Parsons was placed fifth by the judges in the 100-meter final, whereas the official motion pictures showed he finished tied with his teammate, Les Ball, for second.

Today, after viewing the pictures and consulting the judges, Referee Gustavus T. Kirby made the shift official in the 100 meters.

Cunningham Leads M. A. Pro Field

Shoots Par 70, Tredor Spencer Tied at Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 29.—Par on the newly arranged golf course at Clifton Park withstood the shots of 23 pros today as the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. held its scheduled formal opening of the layout.

Frank Cunningham, of Burning Tree, won with an even par 70. Al Tredor, of Manor Club, and Cliff Spencer, of Beaver Dam, tied for second with 72. Three tied for the next honors with 73: Walter Cunningham, of Burning Tree, brother of the winner; Al Houghton, of Kenwood, and Eddie Stevens, of Manor, sharing the laurels.

Five of the professionals found the going too heavy and failed to turn in cards. The remainder showed totals ranging from 74 to 80.

Cunningham, the winner, registered four birdies and was one stroke over par on a like number of holes in a very consistent round. He had a 36 on the more difficult first nine, and a 34 on the second half. His card matched par for three holes. He sank his first putt on the fourth for a birdie, but lost the stroke to his mythical rival on the sixth, a long dog-leg around the corner of St. Vincent's Cemetery. He dropped another stroke each on the seventh and ninth, par threes, sandwiching a birdie on the par-five eighth.

On the homeward journey, he held nearer to card figures, claiming a birdie on the twelfth, going one over on the thirteenth, and snaring another birdie on the fourteenth. All are par fours.

Beer Controversy Grows in Takoma

Takoma Park's beer situation remained stationary last night, with both sides waiting for action on the other side. It was rumored that the three Takoma Park merchants who have obtained State beer licenses have retained Capt. Joseph C. Cissell, Rockville attorney, as counsel and intend filing suit for injunction against the mayor and council and town of Takoma Park to restrain interference with their sale of 3.2 per cent beer.

Mayor Frederick L. Lewton said last night that the town council probably will file suit for injunction against the merchants if they do not secure the $1,000 town beer license before selling. He said that the controversy will be kept on a dignified plane and that the courts will be asked to decide whether the town charter giving the council right to regulate business within its borders is to be upheld.

Mystery Shooting Hurts 3 at Bowie

A shooting early yesterday at the Bowie race track resulted in injuries to three colored men and the arrest of six on a charge of investigation.

According to witnesses, Solomon Price, Walter Nasson, Oscar Walker, Charles Eckton, William Maddox and Lewis Brown, stable grooms, were standing on a driveway inside the grounds talking to several colored women.

A shotgun was suddenly discharged from several feet away in the darkness. Price, Nasson and Eckton fell. After treatment at Freedmen's Hospital all but Nasson, who was seriously wounded, were returned to the Hyattsville lockup.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ALMOST anything, including starlight, can be kept in cold storage. In the case of starlight, according to a recently developed method, the light is passed through a telescope to a phosphorescent substance which absorbs it. The phosphorescent material, together with its collected starlight, is frozen in liquid air. Then it can be thawed out and seen again, as the phosphorescent absorbent glows.

Like many other wars, the "War of Jenkins' Ear," between England and Spain in 1739, was started by a comparatively unimportant incident. In this war the immediate cause was a fight between two men. Robert Jenkins, a master mariner and citizen of England, had an ear cut off by a Spanish captain. The smoldering fire of the English-Spanish commercial and colonial quarrel burst into flame, and the nations went to war.

The war finally merged, in 1740, with the war of the Austrian Succession, which involved other European powers.

In 1887 John Kyner, of Eustis, Nebr., wrote a friendly letter to a friend, T. E. Dyson, then in Fulton, Ill. Two years ago Mr. Kyner received a reply from Mr. Dyson, now a resident of Manila, Iowa, who said that for 44 years he had been intending to answer the letter.

Five Companies Accused of Failing to Meet Worker Compensation.

A Senate District subcommittee investigation into charges that five insurance companies have failed to pay local claims approved by the United States Employes Compensation Commission under the workmen's compensation act, was ordered yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

Changes in the District workmen's compensation law, with a view to immediately correcting the situation, were proposed to the committee by a delegation of five, representing the American Federation of Labor, trades union interests and local employers affected by the act.

$31,000 Held Overdue.

Preliminary testimony was taken at once by the newly appointed subcommittee, comprising Senator Robert D. Carey (Republican), Wyoming, chairman; Senator Patrick McCarren (Democrat), Nevada, and Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland.

Frank J. Coleman, secretary of the Central Labor Union, told the subcommittee that some $31,000 in claims by injured workmen in need of the compensation already are overdue in the District.

Others testifying before the subcommittee included Edward J. Murphy, representing the employers, Fred Rice, representing the master builders, Edward Tracy, legal adviser to the American Federation of Labor, and John Locher, of the Washington Building Trades Association.

District Fund Proposed.

Members of the delegation proposed that a compensation fund be established in the District, similar to State funds now common in a number of jurisdictions, from which claims would be paid. Congress would be asked to make the initial appropriation, which would be paid back by the usual workmen's compensation premiums.

Senator Carey said the subcommittee would investigate every angle of the situation, and probably propose corrective legislation.

Wimbley Sentence For Life Sustained

Howard C. Dickerson, alias Harry C. Wimbley, will have to serve the life sentence imposed on him in District Supreme Court for second degree murder in connection with the drowning of his wife, Elizabeth Wimbley, in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal in September, 1931.

Dickerson and John M. Crowder were convicted, but the latter did not appeal his conviction. Both were sentenced to life imprisonment by Justice James M. Proctor, and the Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the convictions.

Wimbley, it was shown, had taken out a $10,000 accident insurance policy on his wife just prior to her death. He and Crowder accompanied Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter by a previous marriage on a fishing trip up the canal, and both the mother and daughter were drowned when the canoe tipped over. William H. Collins and John J. Sirica represented the Government and Cedric F. Johnson represented Wimbley.

Poison Dose Fatal In Heavy Drinking

Edward Gosnell, 38, of 414 B street northeast, died last night at Gallinger Hospital several hours after he had swallowed a quantity of poison.

According to statements made to police by fellow roomers, Gosnell had been drinking heavily all evening. He was found in his room shortly after taking the poison. He was rushed to Casualty Hospital, but due to the fact that physicians were unable to handle the half-crazed man, he was transferred to Gallinger.

SENATE D.C. GROUP VOTES GAS MERGER AND ALLEY REFORM

Capper to Stage Floor Fight for "Going Concern" Elimination.

The Senate District Committee late yesterday approved both the Washington-Georgetown Gas Light Co. bill and the revised Capper bill for rehabilitating Washington's inhabited alleys.

Approval of the merger bill, which has struck a snag in the House District Committee, followed an unsuccessful attempt by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, to amend the measure to eliminate "going concern" from future valuations.

Concession to Public.

Senator Capper informed the committee he will nevertheless offer the amendment from the Senate floor. The "going concern" change, championed by the late Senator Robert Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, is being vigorously pushed by People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who feels the public should be given some concession in return for allowing the companies to merge.

Two unsuccessful efforts to amend the Capper alley bill were made by James Wilkes, of the Operative Builders Association, and Senator Carey, before the bill was ordered favorably reported.

Sullivan Protests Merger.

The Wilkes amendment would have restricted the street front property that might be purchased by the agency carrying out the alley improvements. The Carey amendment would have forbidden the agency to erect new buildings in alleys.

The Capper bill would appropriate $500,000 out of unexpended balances of the old United States Housing Corporation, to be used in remedying the alley situation, under direction of an agency designated by the President.

Vice President George Sullivan, of the District Federation of Citizens Associations, appeared before the committee in opposition to the gas company merger as now proposed. He presented resolutions in support of the Capper "going concern" amendment.

Travel Club to Stage Stunts Tomorrow Night

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will inspect the subsistence gardens operated by the District committee on employment at 11 a. m. today. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Frederick H. Brooks, chairman of the garden subcommittee; Ernest H. Daniel, chairman of the employment committee, and District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan.

More than 500 garden plots have been supplied to the committee for cultivation by unemployed families. Approximately $50,000 worth of garden produce is expected to be raised. The gardens are located at Twenty-sixth street and Benning road northeast, First and E streets southwest, Tunlaw road and Thirty-ninth street northwest, and Forty-eighth street and Conduit road northwest. More than 100 acres are under cultivation.

The land was loaned without cost to the committee by the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, the Glover estate, Senator Gore, and the Griffith-Consumers Coal Co.

Grocery Manager Is Robbed of $622

On arriving to open his store, H. L. Compton, manager of a Sanitary Grocery Co. store at 6918 Fourth street northwest, yesterday morning found a colored robber in the store waiting for him. The robber robbed Compton of $622 of the company's fund, then forced him into a vegetable refrigerator.

Compton told police the man was hiding in a storage room, and covered him with a revolver, forcing him to hand over the Saturday receipts.

MORE TAX REVENUE EXPECTED ON BEER

Larger Return Predicted in Second Month as Number of Licensees Rises.

Larger revenue is anticipated from the second month's sale of beer in Washington than from the first month, District tax officials stated yesterday, despite the early rush which followed the legalization of 3.2 per cent brew.

The expected increase in tax receipts is based on the steady gain in the number of holders of temporary licenses and because many of those who paid taxes for April had held their permits for only a few days before filing returns. April taxes at $1 a barrel amounted to $14,146.63. Tax officials estimate that May revenue, which is due between Thursday and June 10, will reach between $18,000 and $20,000.

More than 300 licenses have been issued since May 1, bringing the total to 1,776.

While the first month's receipts were disappointing, May's return is expected to show a fairer representation of what District tax officials can estimate from beer taxation for a year. Early predictions of $350,000 from this source are now believed to have been unduly optimistic.

To facilitate filing of returns, the tax assessor's office has tabulated the tax per case from 1 to the 13¾ which constitute a barrel. The case tax is 7¼ cents.

Action on Economy In Schools Delayed

The Board of Education will withhold final action on an economy program for operation of local public schools during 1934 until passage of the appropriation bill, it was announced yesterday afternoon after members of the board met as a committee of the whole.

The board is faced with the contingency of continuing the teacher and librarian staff on a budget of $90,000 less than at present. Regular teachers and librarians in good standing have been assured that they will not lose their positions.

The force will be reduced through retirements, resignations and deaths, and the discharge of teachers whose rating is unsatisfactory. Classes, however, will be considerably enlarged.

Child Injured by Fall On Georgetown Viaduct

Nine-year-old Luther Johnson, 3528½ M street nortwest, suffered a possible fracture of the skull late yesterday when he fell about 15 feet from the viaduct at Thirty-sixth and M streets northwest. He was treated at Georgetown University Hospital.

BUILDERS PROTEST PLASTERERS' WAGE

Declare $14 Per Day Would Greatly Curtail Rising Private Work.

Master builders of Washington yesterday entered the wage controversy between the contracting plasterers and the plasterers' union to the extent of sending telegrams to L. W. Robert, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and contracting officer, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, declaring that the rate of $14 per day, asked by the union, "if established would result in a great curtailment of private work, which at the present time is just beginning to show signs of activity." The telegram was signed by Frank Sheehan, secretary of the Master Builders Association of Washington. It read:

"It is our understanding that you have under consideration at the present time the establishment of a wage rate for journeymen plasterers on Government projects here. As this ruling will greatly affect the building industry in general, we, the Master Builders Association of Washington, D. C., would like to bring the following facts to your attention:

"The rate of $14 per day claimed by the journeymen plasterers is an extraordinarily excessive one and would be the highest for this class of work in the entire country. Such a rate, if established, would result in a great curtailment of private work which, at the present time, is just beginning to show signs of activity.

"It is very discouraging to the industry in general to be told that at such a time as this, when practically all other trades have agreed, or are in the process of entering into an agreement on a reasonable rate of wage, that the plasterers mean to insist on a rate of $14 per day."

George W. Lee, president of the Contracting Plasterers Association, yesterday declared that every bid made on Government projects was made with the idea of keeping Washington men at work; that the labor market, known to be on the downtrend at the time, was taken into consideration, and that the plea now is to save the private building industry of the city.

"If the union is permitted to fix its rates at $14 per day, it will mean the halting of private building to a considerable extent," he said, "and will result in continued high rents because property owners must have a return on the money expended in building, and every dollar added to the cost means just that much more on which a return must be shown."

Neither the contracting officer, Mr. Robert, nor the Department of Labor had fixed a "prevailing wage" rate last night.

LOCAL TAX HEARING WON BY FEDERATION OF CITIZENS' GROUPS

Realty Rates and Methods of Assessments to Be Probed Friday.

The District Commissioners yesterday granted the Federation of Citizens Associations a hearing on the moot issue of the District's realty tax rate and Tax Assessor William P. Richards' policy of making assessments. The hearing was scheduled for 10:30 a. m. Friday.

While it is generally expected that the Commissioners will reduce the District tax rate to $1.50 almost immediately after the 1934 appropriations act is passed by Congress, the federation in several resolutions in recent weeks has demanded a 20 per cent horizontal reduction in realty assessments on the ground that value had shrunk considerably since 1929.

Mr. Richards has been the target of several attacks for insisting that most of his assessments are still under values as represented by sales and for his argument that District realty taxes are actually well below those paid in most other larger cities.

The federation has charged that the tax assessor has failed to observe the law by not making new assessments each year while admitting that such a task has been practically impossible because of the smallness of his staff of assistants.

Mr. Richards has been invited to attend the hearing, to which the federation expected to bring about a dozen delegates, according to Thomas E. Dodge, vice president.

Five Persons Injured By Hit-and-Run Driver

Five persons were injured, one seriously, late last night when their automobile was struck by a hit-and-run driver near Quantico, Va. They were brought to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Freda Umhau, 33, of 1327 Jefferson street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the skull, jaw and right arm, and her two children, Marjorie Ellen, 3 years old, and John Bernard, 6, received severe lacerations and bruises. Frank McLane, 45, of 3705 Thirty-fifth street northeast, and his wife, Augusta, 40, were also severely cut and bruised.

Farm Aid Units to Mass In Old Railway Building

The Public Buildings Commission yesterday at a special meeting decided to make a series of transfers of governmental units to result in the concentration of farm relief agencies in the old Southern Railway Building.

The Bureau of Prohibition will be moved from the railway building to the old Commerce Department Building at 1825 H street as the Farm Loan Bureau is moved in. The transfers will begin Wednesday.

Retired Teacher Loses Crash Suit

The District Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the action of the District Supreme Court which dismissed a suit brought by Jeanette Cohen, a retired school teacher, against Joseph A. Petty, a real estate agent, for injuries that she sustained while a passenger in Petty's automobile.

The lower court dismissed the suit when the evidence showed that Mr. Petty had been taken suddenly ill while driving the car, with the result that the machine left the road and struck an embankment. Pointing out that Petty had no reason to expect the illness which made it impossible for him to control the car, the court concurred with the District Supreme Court that there was no showing of negligence on the part of the driver.

Persons holding unpaid notes to the amount of $800,000, secured by a "released trust" on the Shoreham Building at Fifteenth and H streets northwest, yesterday lost in the District Court of Appeals their fight to have the trust under which they brought their notes, reinstated in the place of the subsequent trust.

The trust was released by the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., and a second first trust, to the amount of $1,600,000 was obtained from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. The Swartzell firm paid off about $1,450,000 of the prior $2,350,000 first trust, leaving a balance of $800,000. The holders of these notes have never been paid.

The building was sold to Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, and an associate, Joseph I. Cromwell, who still hold it under the name of the Investment Company.

The court held that the "embezzlement of the fund ($800,000) by the Swartzell company was the immediate cause of the loss to the plaintiffs, and if they are innocent victims of the wrong doing, so also would be the Investment Co. if it had to bear the loss."

The court also found that the holders of the subsequent mortgage had fully complied with the terms of the prior trust in the manner in which it was paid off. A clause in the trust gave the Swartzell firm the right to accept payment of the trust in full and then to authorize a release on the land records. That is what was done, the only informality being the failure of the Swartzell firm to pay all the note holders.

Attorneys E. Hilton Jackson, W. E. Richardson and G. C. Shinn represented the plaintiffs, and Louis Titus, the law firm of McKenney, Flannery & Craighill, Albert Wright, of New York, and Joseph D. Sullivan represented the defendants.

U. S. HIGHWAY FUNDS DEMANDED FOR D. C. UNDER REVIVAL BILL

Federal Workers Plead for Civil Service Control of Emergency Set-Up.

District officials and representatives of the Washington Board of Trade yesterday presented a vigorous plea to the Senate Finance Committee for including the District in the $400,000,000 highway-aid program provided for in the Presidents' recovery bill.

At the same time, representatives of organized Federal employe groups appealed to the committee to support the merit system by limiting jobs under the new emergency recovery set-up to those who have qualified under Civil Service.

Point to High Taxes.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan was given permission to file a brief pointing out that while the District is provided for under a section of the bill having to do with public works other than highways, it could receive Federal aid on only two projects. The brief will show that Washington will benefit little, unless given the same consideration as the States under the highways and public works sections.

Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, arguing that the District would benefit not at all from the highway construction provision, although taxed for it at the same rate as the States, pronounced the arrangement "highly unfair." He pointed out that the District paid more in taxes, on the basis of 1929 receipts, than 25 States.

Proper Share Sought.

"The City of Washington and the District would be the only jurisdiction within the United States that would not be eligible to share under the highway portion of the act," he said.

Mr. Cottrell, and Dr. Llewellyn Jordan, of the streets and avenues committee of the Washington Board of Trade, filed with Senate Finance Chairman Pat Harrison copies of amendments that would give the District its proportional share of the Federal aid funds.

Representatives of organized Federal employes pointed out that Civil Service employes, being generally laid off under the administration's economy program, should be provided for under the newly created emergency agencies. Virtually all of the new agencies set up during the present session have been directed to eliminate Civil Service status as a qualification.

Robert L. Smith, manager of a delicatessen at 1424 New Jersey avenue northwest, was held up and robbed of about $9 late yesterday by two colored men.

Smith told police one of the men threw him down and locked the front door, while the other rifled the cash register. They fled after warning him they would shoot if he followed. He said only one of the men was armed.
